DISTRICT COURT MARTIAL.

K.O.S.B. CORPORAL IN GRAVE TROUBLE.

ALLEGED SERIES OF FRAUDS
ON ARMY FUNDS.

OVER $1,300 INVOLVED.

Corporal Charles Hendry, of the King's Own Scottish Borderers,
faced fifteen charges at a District Court Martial this morning in connection with monies of the Regimental Association.

It was alleged that while acting as clerk to the President of the Association the accused converted certain monies to his own use.
Over twenty sums are involved,
exceeding more than $1,350.

The Court assembled at Scindal
Point, the President being Major Todd, of the 3/15 Punjab Regiment,
other members being Captain Gage-Brown, of the Somerset Light Infantry, and Lieutenant Vivian, of the Royal Artillery.

The Judge Advocate was Mr.
Somerset Pittaroy and the prosecutor Captain P. Perfect, for whom
Mr. R.A. Wadsworth appeared.

Corporal Hendry was represented
by Mr. D. L. Strellett.

Before the proceedings started, Garrison interpreters in Urdu and Chinese were sworn in.

Point of Prejudice.

On being asked by the Judge Advocate if any objection was raised in the interpreters, Mr. Strellett said he wished to know if any of the witnesses were acquainted with the interpreters.

The Judge Advocate replied that unless Mr. Strellett could show that the interpreters might be prejudiced, an objection could not be supported.

Mr. Strellett said he had not made any suggestion of prejudice.
It is understood that about twenty witnesses will be called before the Court, the majority being officers and men of the King's Own Scottish Borderers.

No Shortland Note.

Mr. Strellett suggested that the proceedings might be shortened
if a shorthand note were taken of the proceedings. In that case it might be possible each morning to get a transcription of the previous day's evidence to which the Court could refer. No official shorthand writer had been produced, but he had a private arrangement with Mr. Wadsworth for a shorthand writer if the Court approved.

The President announced that the Court did not consider it necessary for a shorthand note to be taken.

The charges were read by the President to accused who pleaded not guilty to each charge in turn.

The first charge was that, while acting as clerk to the President of the Regimental Institute, on or about October 27, accused received a cheque for $50.57 drawn by the President and payable to the Navy, Army and Air Force Institute for the purpose of paying a debt which he stated had been incurred with the N.A.A.F.I.
for cleaning materials supplied
while the King's Own Scottish Borderers were at Shimen, and that he cashed the cheque at the Murray Barracks and used the proceeds for his own purposes with intent to defraud.

Other Counts.

The second charge was an alternative of this, while on the third Hendry was charged that on October 28 he received a cheque for $115.86 drawn by the officer commanding the Machine Gun Company, payable to the President of the Institute, for the purpose of paying the same in to the Chartered Bank, that he failed to do so and cashed the cheque at Murray Barracks and used the money for his own purposes.

The fourth charge was an alternative of this.

On the fifth count, Hendry
was charged that on May 18, 1928, he received a cheque for $59.20, on June 8 for $77.70, on June 13 for $16.25, on July 13 for $56.40, on August 4
for $33.30, on August 13 for $31.60, on September 17 for $52.86, on September 17 for $42.85, on October 9 for $94.50, on October 18 for $45.80, on November 9 for

THE $10,000 MARK ATTAINED!

RESULT OF "TELEGRAPH"
MINERS' FUND.

H.K.F.A.'S DONATION.

It is with the utmost pleasure that we are able to announce to-day that the "Telegraph" Fund for the relief of distress amongst British miners and their families has reached the total of $10,000.
This is due to a splendid donation from the Hongkong Football Association of $787.38, which was the sum needed to make the round figure.

It was our intention to close the list yesterday, but the Hongkong Football Association, learning this morning that $787.38 would bring the total to $10,000, has generously come forward with this sum,
with the result that we have to-day been able to cable Home this amount in time for inclusion in the Lord Mayor's Fund and thus qualify for the Government's £ for £ grant. Our sincerest thanks are due to the Association for this worthy gesture.

With the "Telegraph" list
brought up to $10,000, the Miners' Fund will in reality benefit to the extent of £2,000—a sum which gives us much satisfaction in having decided to launch the appeal. In congratulating all who have made this splendid result possible, we feel that our effort has not been in vain.

To-morrow a full list of donors,
together with details of the various sums cabled Home from time to time, will be published in the "Telegraph".

TERRIBLE ACCIDENT IN MOTOR RACE.

FAMOUS GERMAN DRIVER
KILLED INSTANTLY.

Berlin, Apr. 29.

A terrible accident occurred during motor races at Stendal today, as the result of which three persons were killed, including the famous German racing motorist, Baron Wentzel Moseu.

The Baron was driving at a high speed, with a companion,
when a cyclist suddenly appeared on the road in front. In swerving to avoid a collision, the powerful car turned a complete somersault, and caught on fire, crashing into spectators at the same time.

Both Baron Wentzel Moseu and his companion were dragged out of the wreckage quite dead. One of the spectators was killed by the car, while several others received injuries of a more or less serious

since his illness.

His Majesty desires personally necessarily mean the end of the LOCAL "SQUEEZE RING" TRIAL.

BRIBERY ORGANISED ON BIG SCALE.

EVIDENCE AGAINST POLICE CONSTABLE.

"A TISSUE OF LIES."

The four hawkers charged with being associated with constables of the Hawkers' Licences Department at Police Headquarters in what was described as a "squeeze ring" for the exaction of bribes from hawkers, were again before Major C. Willson this morning.

Chief Detective Inspector Reynolds, at a previous hearing, in detailing the nature of the activities in which the accused took part, said that, for some time past, Chinese constables on hawkers' supervision duty, had set in operation a system by which periodical bribes were exacted from hawkers, whether the latter were licensed or unlicensed, those bribes being handed into one common pool. The accused were appointed as agents for the collection of this "squeeze."

Upon payment of the levy for a particular week, the hawkers concerned would be given a password, which he was to give to the constable who should happen to question him in the course of that week. The tacit understanding would then be conveyed that the levy had been paid in, and the hawkers would enjoy immunity from arrest, wrongful or otherwise, for that particular period.

Accused's Position.

As to the position of the accused in the case, they were between the upper and nether mill-stones, observed Mr. F. H. Loseby, who appeared for one of the accused hawkers this morning. They could not help themselves, added
Mr. Loseby, for if they did not do what the constables said, they would themselves be brought up on some false charge or other.

C. D. I. Reynolds did not oppose the imposition of a relatively light penalty. He said that, after conviction, he had no doubt that at least two of the accused would be willing to give evidence in the case against the constables,
who had absconded.

Major Willson fined each of the accused $25.

Constable's Case.

The trial was then proceeded with in the other Court, before
Mr. E. W. Hamilton, of Wong Kam-sing, one of seven men whom the C. D. I. said, had disappeared in the breaking-up of the "squeeze ring." Detailing the circumstances of how the accused came to be before the Court, Mr.
Reynolds said that for some short period the accused was missing from his post. He wife returned his Service revolver to Sub-Inspector Field, who then gave certain advice to the woman. In consequence of that advice, the accused turned up, and was charged.

Mr. H. K. Hall Brutton, who appeared for the defence, was informed that only one charge would be retained against the accused, this being that he mis-conducted himself as a police constable in accepting bribes from hawkers. The charge of conspiracy was dropped.

Marked Money.

The first witness called by the prosecution was a man described as being one of the "collectors" referred to. C. D. I. Reynolds said he would give evidence of having received some marked money distributed by the police amongst a number of hawkers, and would also speak of the accused having received a lump sum, the accumulative amount of the bribes, on two occasions.

Difficult Witness.

A henced hawkers named To Pan was called as a witness for the prosecution, and proved a difficult witness, repeatedly evading questions put to him.

He stated that he had known defendant for the past three months,
and was introduced to him by Ah Lung, a police constable in the market department. Ah Lung told

NEW YORK TRAINS WRECKED.

TERRIFYING EXPERIENCES OF PASSENGERS.

CRASH IN RUSH HOUR.

New York, Apr. 29.

Passengers on an elevated train
in the Bronx District this morning
had a terrifying experience, when their train crashed into the rear of a tube train on the same track.

Three persons were killed and more than 40 injured, and it is somewhat remarkable that the casualties were not greater.

The accident occurred during the rush hour, when office workers were on their way to the City, and it is estimated that there were over 3,000 people on board the trains concerned in the collision at the time of the crash.

Immediately on hitting the rear of the tube train, one of the wooden coaches of the elevated train caught fire, and firemen were obliged to raise their ladders to the "elevated" structure in order to extinguish the flames, which defied them for half an hour.

Afterwards, the passengers, the great majority of whom appeared to be hysterical were removed.

CHINESE DELEGATES AT GENEVA.

Talk of Military Conscription for China.

A STRANGE "THREAT."

Geneva, Apr. 29.

After the discussion in the Disarmament Conference, the Chinese delegates told Reuter's representative that China would probably introduce conscription, if conscription was not abolished
by other nations.—Reuter.

Several of them collapsed on the track and had to be carried by police and firemen.

The accident was apparently due to an error by the driver of the tube train, who was killed.
When his body was extricated, he still had his hand on the emergency brake.—*Reuter's American

SMALL-POX DECLINES IN BOMBAY.

VACCINATION URGED ON SHIPPING COMPANIES.

London, Apr. 29.

Earl Winterton, Under-Secretary for India, stated in the House of Commons to-day that the latest figures showed that small-pox had declined in Bombay since the middle of March, the number of cases having dropped from 142
during the week ending March 16th to 86 in the week ending April 9th.

A circular had been issued to the shipping companies by the Port Health Department of Bombay advising vaccination of all passengers and crews of vessels leaving Bombay, except persons recently vaccinated, and it was understood that this advice was being followed.—

NO RELIEF IN SUDDEN
TENSION.

SUSPICION OF DISLOYALTY IN NANKING ARMY.

CHIANG'S ANXIETIES.

Shanghai, Apr. 29.

The tension between Feng Yuhsiang and Chiang Kai-shek over the disposition of troops in Shantung is unrelieved, though it is reported that Chiang has made a conciliatory offer. Official circles admit the gravity of the situation, and general uneasiness is felt in Nanking.

General Lu Chung-lin, the acting Minister of War, and Feng's chief lieutenant, left for "Shanghai" yesterday to attend the inauguration ceremony of a new aerodrome, but from a reliable source, it is learned that Lu Chung-lin went to
If this is true it is obvious that his intention is to rejoin his Chief.

Feng's sudden decision, conveyed through his protégé, Sun Liang-sing, to evacuate Shantung, has alarmed officials in Nanking and has not pleased Chiang Kai-shek, according to reports. Chiang was not expecting Feng to adopt an independent attitude, and it is understood that he is making every effort to placate the "Christian" General at this time.

Sun Liang-sing has been repeatedly urged to return to his post.
Chiang's anxiety is believed to be partly dictated by a suspicion that all is not well among the Nanking troops in the Hankow area.

Revolt against Nanking.

A Reuter message from Hankow received to-day, says that it is learned that Chiang Ting-wen's troops (the 9th Nanking Division) and General Li Ming-chia's troops are concentrating just below Hankow, ostensibly on their way to Fukien to take part in a campaign against the communists,
but says Reuter, it is reliably reported that they will eventually land at Linchow or Yanchow to launch a surprise attack against Nanking.

No confirmation is available in Chinese circles yet, though the suggestion that certain Nanking forces may possibly be in revolt has given rise to further fears.

The Kuomintang Centred.

The Kuomintang forces after their departure from Shantung, under the leadership of General Sun Liang-sing, passed Kaifeng, in Honan, before dawn on Sunday and immediately proceeded to Chengchow, on the Peking-Hankow Railway.

Meanwhile, it is reported that a considerable number of Nanking troops have been moving down from Tientsin districts to Tehchow, a strategic point on the Tientsin-Pukow Railway in the north-west of Shantung. These troops at Tehchow are under the command of General Feng Chen-wu, who is mentioned as a possible candidate for the Civil Government of Shantung, in the place of General Sun Liang-sing.

Rolling Stock Seized.

Feng is holding up a quantity of rolling stock at Chengchow on the Railway, and a portion of traffic is at a standstill.

It is reported that the conference arranged between Chiang Kai-shek and Feng Yu-hsiang at Chengchow, will be postponed.
Hankow reports have it that Marshal Chiang Kai-shek will return to Nanking in a day or two to make necessary preparations for the National Defence Conference to which Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang has been invited.

Kaifeng Situation.

Much apprehension is felt at Kaifeng, as the result of the enforcement since Sunday evening,
of Martial Law in the city.
Troops are picketing the city,
and after 11 in the evening all streets are deserted. It is rumoured that Marshal Feng Yu-hsiang has arrived at Loyang, in Shensi.

LIVELY SCENE IN COMMONS.

TWO INTERRUPTERS SHOUT
DENUNCIATIONS.

MAN & YOUNG WOMAN.

London, Apr. 29.

Exciting scenes were witnessed in the House of Commons to-day,
a dull period, when the House was dealing with minor legislation, being enlivened by an elderly man in the Public Gallery, who suddenly rose to his feet shouting
"Down with the Simon Commission!" at the same time showering green leaflets on the floor of the House.

He was seized by a detective immediately, and left quietly.

Almost at once, a woman also rose and screamed: "Down with the Simon Commission and the Government that starved the miners." When attendants sought to remove the young lady, she clung tenaciously to the railings, from which she was eventually removed and taken out, still shouting denunciations and singing the
"Red Flag."

The green leaflets were signed
"London District Committee, International Class War Prisoners' Association."

Later.

The interrupters in the Commons are both avowed Communists.
The man is a quagmaker
and the woman is a clerk, 22 years of age. In accordance with custom, both were detained till the House rose, and no charge will be preferred.—Reuter.

NEW GOVERNMENT IN BAGDAD.

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN IRAQI CABINET.

Bagdad, Apr. 29.

The recent political difficulties appear to have been overcome, a new Cabinet having been formed under the Presidency of Tawfik Bey Swaidi, the former Minister of Education.

The most significant appointment is that of Amin Zaki Bey, who was a Turkish officer during the War, as the Minister of Defence. He replaces General Nuri, and the importance of the change is that General Nuri was a strong Conscriptionist, while Amin Zaki Bey is an opponent of conscription.

Zaki is of the opinion that the solution of the defence of Iraq lies in military support from Great Britain over a long period.

MR. MESSER QUITE SATISFIED.

CERTAIN-YEO CHEQUES WERE FORGERIES.

RELATIONS BETWEEN THE BANK & GOVERNMENT.

ORDINARY CUSTOMER.

The Colonial Treasurer, Mr. C.
McI. Messer gave evidence during the whole of this morning's hearing of the case in which the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank for the re-crediting of the sum of over $200,000, the money involved in the Yeo frauds.

Mr. Messer said his conviction that the disputed cheques were forged remained unabated and unshaken, and dealing with the contractual relations between the Government and the Bank, he considered these were the ordinary relations between banker and customer.

When the case was resumed this morning, Mr. C. McI. Messer went into the witness box. He said that Praya East Account cheques were made out by Mr.
Barton who signed them first and then sent them to witnesses for signature. Mr. Black had nothing to do with them.

Mr. Sheldon pointed out that Mr. Black had told them of the procedure of cheques being signed with the vouchers and of the ordinary routine of witness signing cheques first and then passing them to Mr. Black for signature after examination. Mr. Black had also said that at the end of the year there was a variation of that routine.

Mr. Messer replied that Mr.
Black had spoken correctly.
The counterfoils of the cheque books, from which the 60 cheques were extracted, were then handed to Mr. Messer, who said that both books were short of 30 cheques.

The shortage was first brought to his notice on January 18. On that day he instructed Mr. Black to go to the Hongkong Bank, get the cheques, and not to enter into any argument or discussion about them.

Auditor's Duty.

Witness said he also asked the assistant auditor, Mr. Dullin to go to the Bank. Asked for the reason witness replied that it was the usual custom to send an auditor when anything was wrong. As a rule an auditor went immediately on such occasions. It was the auditor's duty to investigate the matter.

Replying to other questions, Mr.
Messer said that about ten days before the end of the year 1927, just after an order had been given to the Bank for 200 cheques, 400 cheques were received. Tsang On-wing spoke to witness in the main office, saying that the Bank had sent 400 cheques instead of 200, and added "We are 60 short" or words to that effect. I took it to mean that it only required 60 more cheques." Witness said he replied that as the Bank had sent the book, it did not matter.

No Notion.

THE BANK CASE.

COLONIAL TREASURER GIVES EVIDENCE.

The Colonial Treasurer, Hon. Mr. C. McI. Messer, commenced his evidence at the Supreme Court yesterday in the case in which the Government is suing the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation for the recoupling of the sum of $250,000 obtained by Carvalho Yee upon allegedly forged cheques.

Re-examined by Mr. H. G. Sheldon, junior counsel for the Government, Mr. T. Black, of the Treasury, said that it had never been put to him before that he suggested to Mr. Hegarty that the signature might be genuine. That suggestion was untrue.

Dealing with the interview with Mr. King, witness stated that the then D.C.I. said little to him. He spoke about the writing on the body of the cheques. When Mr. King was present on the 18th he spoke only of the cover of the first cheque book and said it was important that the cover of the other book should be found.

On the 19th, Mr. King handed witness three cheques and asked him if he still maintained that the writing in the body of them was not that of Tsang On-wing. Tsang was under arrest at that time. Witness said he maintained then that it was not Tsang's writing and still adopted this view when told that Mr. King had shown the cheques to some one else familiar with Tsang's writing who had said that it was Tsang's.

Mr. Sheldon: The possibility of your signing cheques in blank has been put to you before?—It was made at the criminal trial but the question was not put to me by Mr. Jenkin.

So for the first time, this morning, comes from the defence possibility of signing routine cheques in blank?—Yes.

Have you ever signed a cheque in blank?—No.

Possible Tricks.

In reply to other questions witness said that if the signatures only on the three disputed cheques were left visible he could distinguish them from those on all the other cheques in Court.

In connexion with the alleged rarities suggested by the defence, witness said he had examined some of the cheques during the limited time available during the adjournment. Dealing with the end stroke where there was an absence of ink caused by the pen splitting, he said that he had found fifty examples of this in a bundle of just over 200 cheques. He had also found 25 cases where the "B" was over the "H" in cashier, also out of a limited number.

Dealing with certain phases of Treasury routine, witness, in reply to other questions, said that the order for a cheque book was signed by Mr. Messer and the receipt was also signed by him, and not by Tsang On-wing.

Mr. Sheldon: Until your cross-examination in this case no form of trick had been suggested to you previously as to how your signature could have been obtained?—No.

At the trial the defence was, at it is now, that the cheques are genuine?—Yes.

Cheques for Round Sums.

Witness agreed that it had been suggested that the cheques might have been signed in blank and also that they might have been put one on top of the other.

His Lordship pointed out that a third suggestion was that the cheques might have been made out with just the words and figures of 78, in the case of one cheque, the thousands and writing being put in later.

Mr. Sheldon: Now supposing that any of these were feasible would the position of your signature be altered in any way from

With reference to your inquiry concerning the brand and type of oil used in the Ryan Monoplane which I delivered and flight tested for the Whan Civil Aviation Association at Hankow, I wish to say the following:

During the time we were setting up and delivering these ships the authorities made a number of tests on various oils from a number of competing companies.

Each kind of oil was given actual flying tests in the Wright Whirlwind motor. The tests were impartial, the methods used were to determine the best oil suitable for the Whan owners. At the time I left Hankow for Shanghai and Canton, those in charge had decided to use, and had bought a large quantity of your

SOCONY EXTRA HEAVY Motor Oil. They had determined to their full satisfaction that this oil would best meet their requirements. Another point in the favor of this brand of oil is that they could obtain it at any point in China where these commercial airplanes may be operating. In other words, universal distribution is also an important part of the service you render, in addition to the known quality and dependability of the product selected.

I can also add, from an entirely personal viewpoint, from experience with different oils during my twelve years flying career in the United States, that Standard Oil's always gave me very good results, they never occasioned the least bit of trouble regardless of the make or type of motor in use, and that I can unhesitatingly recommend to anyone concerned the safety, high performance and general all round quality of your products.

You are at liberty to make any or all parts of this letter a part of any desired publicity to further the sale of your products.

Very sincerely,
Carl F. Bailey
Manager, Aircraft Dept.

the usual?—I can't suggest any reason why it should.

It would be your natural and usual signature?—Yes.

Mr. Black said he had looked through 4,447 cheques and out of this number 1,360 were for round amounts with no cents. Not one of these was made out without the word only, and all had a line and dots indicating that there were no cents in the amount of the cheque.

Handed a cheque which showed an alteration, witness said the alteration was initiated by both Mr. Messer and himself, this being usual procedure.

A Discrepancy.

Mr. Sheldon proceeded to question Mr. Black with regard to apparent discrepancies in the evidence he had given at the criminal trial and at the civil trial.

Mr. Sheldon explained the point was as to whether or not Mr. Black mentioned to Bank officials or a Bank official at the Bank interview that in his (Mr. Black's) opinion the handwriting in the bodies of the cheques was not that of Tsang On-wing.

Mr. Sheldon: In the criminal trial you had not been asked any questions at all in examination-in-chief regarding the interviews and what had been said by you or other people at the Bank?—No.

And it was only in cross-examination that, for the first time, your mind was directed to what was or was not said there?—Yes.

Mr. Sheldon then continued to read the shorthand notes of evidence given by Mr. Black at the Criminal trial, in which he admitted to Mr. Jenkin that the Katz and Co. cheque was the first one he saw. When he saw that cheque his impression that the signatures and the body of the cheque were forged was confirmed.

Did you tell the Bank officials that?—I told them nothing.

Really, you mean about the handwriting in the body. That is what I am talking about?—I said nothing about the handwriting in the body as far as I can recollect.

Did you say anything about Mr. Messer's signature?—No.

Or Tsang On-wing's handwriting?—No.

Was there a discrepancy between that evidence and the evidence you gave to Mr. Jenkin in your present cross-examination. In fact you told us here that you did mention to him that in your opinion it was not Tsang On-wing's handwriting?—Yes.

Since that trial and before you gave evidence in this court you had read through the notes?—Yes.

When you gave this evidence to Mr. Jenkin you were quite cognizant of the fact you had made this statement in the criminal trial. Will you explain it?

Mr. Black's Explanation.

In giving his explanation of this matter, Mr. Black said that when he was under cross-examination he had some difficulty in following the questioning and he could not bring his mind to bear on what occurred at the Bank quite so clearly as he was able to do afterwards.

In this action you had had time to consider and think about it, while on the previous occasion your mind was directed to it in a moment?—Yes.

Is there any doubt in your mind, having thought it over, that you did mention Tsang On-wing's writing?—No doubt.

Mr. Messer's Evidence.

Hon. Mr. C. McI. Messer was the next witness called. He said that he had been Colonial Treasurer since December, 1918. He denied signing any of the disputed cheques, or that they were signed with his authority or, to the best of his knowledge, by the authority of any person in the Government.

He added that he had never signed cheques in favour of such payees. Witness recalled signing a cheque in favour of Man Lee in November, 1927, and not Man Lee as on one of the disputed cheques.

He had not heard of the names of the other payees on the cheques, with the exception of Katz and Company. He continued that a firm of that name came to his notice during the war, when he held the office of Captain Superintendent of Police, with regard to trading with the enemy.

At the end of 1927, continued witness, the Government did not owe any money to the payees named on the disputed cheques. He was the chairman of the Government Tenders Board. He received all tenders and sent them through with any recommendation.

He had not heard of any of the firms as being Government contractors. Very few Government contractors did work which would enable them to receive cheques of $70,000 or over.

Never Signed Blank Cheques.

Mr. Messer went on to say that he had never signed cheques in blank and he had never signed a Treasury cheque without looking at the name of the payee, or the amount for which it was drawn. Every cheque had a voucher and there were no exceptions. Witness described the manner of his receiving cheques, signing them and how he checked them.

It was not an inflexible rule that he always signed a cheque first, although he usually did. Sometimes Mr. Black signed first. There was nothing improper in his doing so.

Mr. Sheldon then placed a number of cheques on top of each other, each one lower than the other so that only the bottom portions of the cheques were visible, the bodies being obscured. Counsel remarked it had been suggested to Mr. Black it was possible that cheques had been signed in that manner, but witness replied that if cheques came to him in that manner, he would examine them individually.

On the whole, said witness, he usually paid more attention to scrutinising cheques and vouchers at the end of the year because Government accounts must not be overdrawn.

The hearing was adjourned.

After a pitched pistol battle French Police and armed kidnapers in the French Concession, Shanghai, last week followed by two sudden raids on kidnapping dens, three wealthy Chinese were released and nine members of the gang were arrested. The three men pictured above are: Mr. Tsang Mang-ou, wealthy Chinese cotton merchant held for $100,000; Mr. Wou Sou-gui, former Governor of Kiangsi Province, held for $200,000; and Mr. Lee Kiu-mai, comprador of Messrs. Wheelock and Co. The last two were held in a modern foreign dwelling in French Concession.

The three kidnapper men pictured on this page were shackled by leather leg fetters, and blindfolded with darkened glass, shown above. The objects between the glasses are types of handcuffs used by the gangs

Angered at the increasing popularity of motor cars and motor bus services which are eating into their own monopoly, ricksha coolies at Hangchow caused very serious disturbances a few days ago. A party of them seized one motor car and pushed it into the West Lake. Picture shows the car toppling into the lake.

A council of war was held in Hangchow, recently organised by the Kuomintang against the Kwangsi faction. The picture shows part of the immense crowd which gathered, yelling slogans and singing songs.

him to take the money collected to defendant's cubicle. For some time he had been in the habit of collecting money for Ah Lung. He could not remember the date or the time when he took the money to defendant's house, but he knew defendant to be a constable. He said to defendant: "Ah Lung asked me to bring you this money," and defendant replied "All right."

Replying to the Magistrate witness said he collected the money from various hawkers.

Given a Password.

Mr. Hamilton:—But people do not pay money without getting something in return. What was the consideration?

Witness:—I gave them a password.

Mr. Hamilton:—In other words it was a sort of insurance to avoid being arrested by the police?—Yes.

Witness said he took the money to a house at the corner of Hollywood Road and Aberdeen Street. Ah Lung was present when the money was handed over. Defendant's wife was also there. "I presume she was his wife for she was lying on the bed" witness added.

Mr. Brutton asked the Bench if he could reserve his cross-examination of the witness, for he was prepared to prove that witness's evidence was nothing but a tissue of lies.

Mr. Hamilton thereupon granted an adjournment of half an hour in order that Mr. Brutton might consult his client.

Ah Lung's Refusal.

When the hearing was resumed, Mr. Brutton asked witness if he knew defendant by any name other than Wong Kam-sing and witness stated that he knew him by the name of Shu. Ngo-fun, a literal translation of which was "roast goose and macaroni." He had not seen defendant on duty during the past three months, and agreed that it was Ah Lung to whom he usually handed the money collected. He did not pay the money to Ah Lung's wife because she refused to take it.

Mr. Brutton:—You say that Ah Lung was in the house and yet you handed the money over to defendant?—He refused to take it.

Why in the name of goodness didn't you pay the money to Ah Lung when you saw him in the house?—He refused it.

Why did he refuse?—How do I know!

Had he refused before?—Never.

Mr. Brutton concluded that the whole story was a tissue of lies.

Witness said it could not be; he had told the same story to the Inspector. Since Ah Lung refused to take the money at the cubicle he had not since refused.

The case is proceeding.

ordered in the programme for the taking over of Tsinan and the region along the Shantung Railway by the government forces on the withdrawal of the Japanese forces. Tsinan, which was formerly designated for garrisoning by Chen Hsin-ming will be taken over instead by the 45th division under Feng Chen-wu; whose forces will also garrison the territory east of Weihsen in conjunction with Liu Chen-nien.—Reuter.

Kuominchun Retirement.

Peking, Apr. 29.
A message from Tsinan says it is reliably reported that Sun Liang-sing is now at Kaifeng. All the Kuominchun troops in Shantung are rapidly withdrawing to Honan via Lunghai.

Official circles here hint that if Sun Liang-sing's resignation is accepted, he will be succeeded by Feng Chen-wu.—Reuter.

The Question of Tsingtao.

Hankow, Apr. 29.
It is understood that, interviewing Hauch Tui-ph, who is Feng Yui-han's pro tem representative, the Generalissimo stated that the detaching of troops to take over control from the Japanese in Shantung had not precluded Feng from sending a representative force to Tsingtao; therefore, though Feng's force had been given control from Tsinan to Weihsen, and Chiang's forces eastward from Weihsen to Tsingtao, it was intimated that, if necessary, part of the "Christian" General's troops should have been asked to proceed to Tsingtao also.—Reuter.

Fines imposed in Surrey Police Courts—mostly on motorists—for the year ending December 31 totalled £22,081. Croydon headed the list with £5,176, Kingston coming next with £2,994, and Epsom third with £2,816.

SOME AFTERNOON FROCKS AND ENSEMBLES.

Scarlet gauntlet cuffs with lines of powder blue were a novelty on an afternoon frock of patterned red, blue and green crepe de Chine with a narrow collar in scarlet and blue, included in the collection at a recent dress show at Home.

A black afternoon frock had a military collar, finishing surprisingly in a scarf at the back in red, black and white patterned crepe de Chine; there was a narrow patent leather belt in red, black and white and a side-drapery below it on one side lined to match the scarf at the back.

Black taffeta fashioned a charming little frock with a crisp white frill standing up around the neck-opening and touches of white at the sleeve-ends; this model was made with a very wide slash effect and was closely draped at the back.

A frock of grey-green crepe had a half-belt rather deeply scalloped at the front and a shaped piece of the material, scalloped in the same way, forming a deep point at the back.

One of the most surprising frocks shown for afternoon wear, a very slim little black model, was cut lower in the front than most evening dresses are at present, and had a queer little tucked white bib as its sole trimming. It was worn with an extremely short black coat which scarcely covered the waistline.

Pink silk lace bordered the sleeves of and formed a shoulder scarf for a rather picturesque gown of pale grey crepe.

The unaffected simplicity of these two day dresses will appeal to the woman who is seeking for something really practical and wearable. The first is developed in wool crepe showing a design in tawny-red and dark green on a buff-coloured ground. The second, in coral pink Tussore, demonstrates the vogue for hem-stitching, its sole adornment being rows of stitching in silk of a darker tint.

Fashion Notes.

A PERFUME FOR EVERY FROCK.

To-day, when the couturiers study every line in a gown, and insist on a harmonious whole, the idea of a special perfume to enhance the beauty of each frock has been evolved. It may be a perfume that has definitely taken its place in the world of perfume, or it may be a combination of one's own pet perfume in combination with another perfume. Simple floral scents which were loved by early Victorian women, the lily-of-the-valley, the violet, the rose, and similar unsophisticated perfumes, are liked by certain fastidious women, and preferred to the more elaborate perfumes.

It may be an extravagance, a delightful one, but one readily forgives a woman for paying a substantial sum for an evening frock, an affair of chiffon and crystal beads, weighing only a few ounces, and then adding to the toll by paying a heavy price for the exquisite and subtle scent that her dressmaker assures her is the one thing needed to complete the already lovely toilette. And indeed it is. She proves that for herself.

The Latest Fabric.

Fashion, which is insatiable, and demands something new, quite new, in the way of fabrics, four or five times a year, is responsible for the latest woollen material, which a well-known manufacturer has brought out.

Nearly every animal, from the camel and the llama, to the humble rabbit, has, during recent years, contributed something to the new materials, but in this new fabric, appear tiny bits of white feathers, taken from the plumage of a bird, probably the domestic hen.

These are woven into the cloth, but appear to be merely sprinkled

Fashion Gossip.

REVIVAL OF THE SHOULDER FLOWER.

The popularity of the chrysanthemum as a shoulder flower, which seemed to be on the wane a short time ago, has been revived once more; but the new specimens are not the old type of spidery, long petalled blooms, made of crepe-de-chine and georgette.

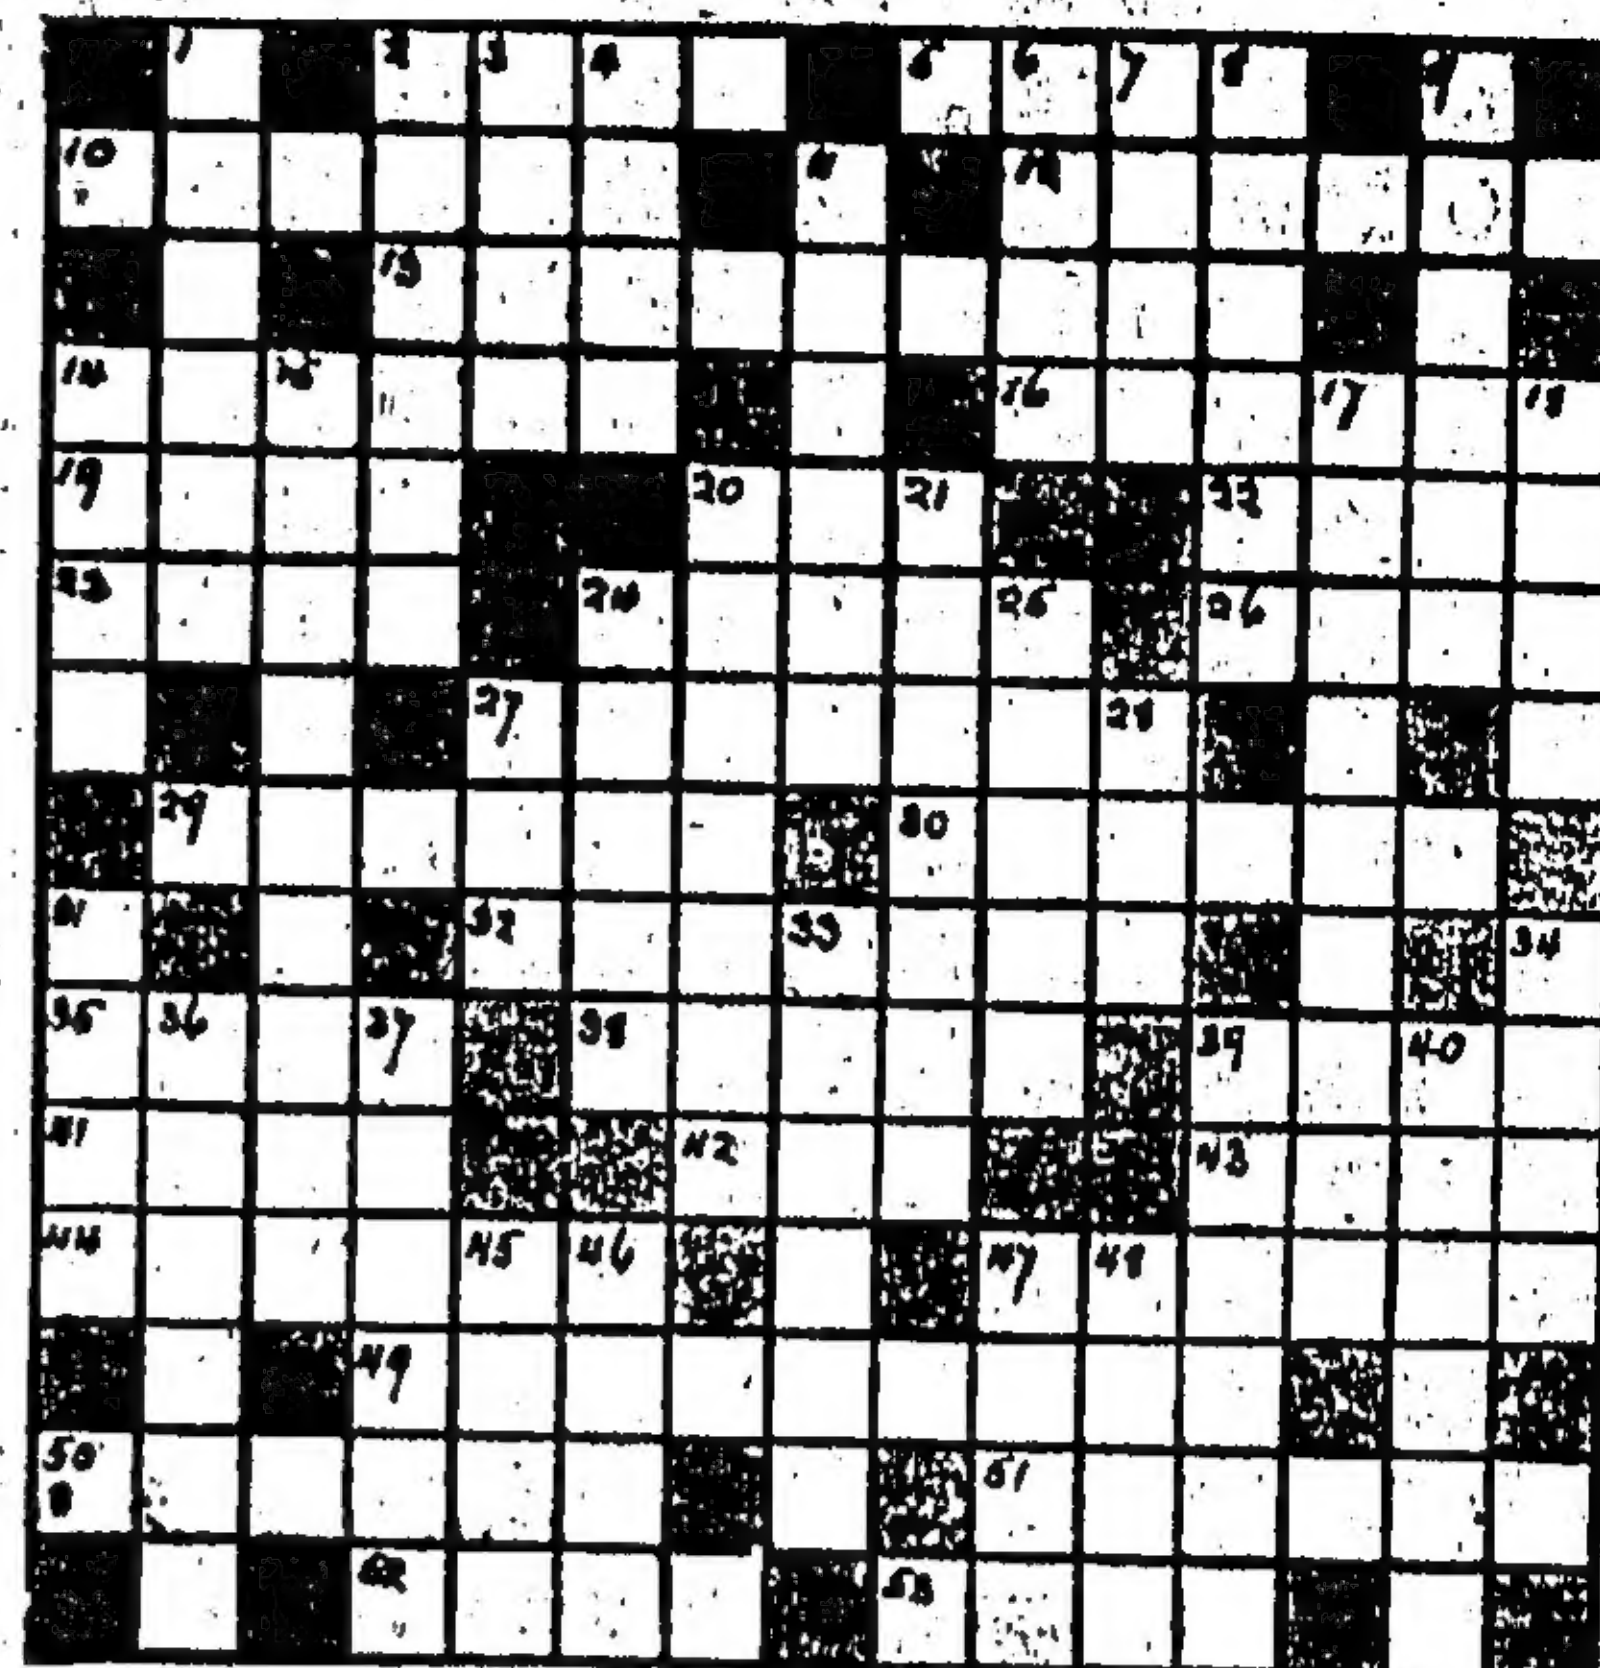

The new comers are made of ribbon, and the effect is produced in so simple, yet so ingenious a way, that it seems certain that only an artist could have thought of it. A short length of ribbon is taken to form two petals, and knotted loosely in the centre, the curl of the end of each petal being thus simulated.

Shoe Necklaces.

The new shoe necklaces can fairly be called necklaces, for they are made to show the décolletée of the evening or afternoon pump. The shoe shops and the speciality shops are offering a great variety of narrow jewelled garlands, in cut crystal, or coloured strass, in fine enamel or carved stones. They are mounted on a flexible band which can be bent to follow the curve of any shoe. They are impeccably good, because they accentuate the structural lines of the shoe, and, while adding a spot of brilliance, do not complicate the design, which must be essentially simple.

over the surface in a manner which gives it a very smart appearance. It is rather costly, but is likely to be a popular novelty in the new dress materials.

VILLAGE SOCIAL LIFE.

COMPLAINT OF UNREASON- ABLE OFFICIAL REGULATION.

Chelmsford, Apr. 3.
"These regulations are killing social life in some of the small rural parishes," exclaimed Alderman Herbert Brooks at a meeting of the Essex County Council at Chelmsford to-day. His remarks had reference to a report that the Council should not make any change in the issue of music and dancing licences outside the Metropolitan area.

Alderman Brooks added that in many Essex villages the centre of social life was an old Army hut, and it would take more than the cost of the hut to introduce all the requirements of the regulations. So long as there were reasonable exits that should be sufficient. To insist upon having all the chairs battened in these small huts was more dangerous than having them loose in case of a fire. He supposed they would soon be wanting a music licence to sing "God save the King."

Councillor E. E. Alexander, M.P., said the Council must carry out the law, and reasonable safety measures must be taken if a number of people assembled. Other representatives of rural areas spoke strongly in favour of some modification being made to enable village gatherings to be held.

THE OPERA SEASON.

"MADAME BUTTERFLY" PROVES BIG DRAW.

One of the best-known operas, "Madame Butterfly," proved to be a big draw when it was staged by Signor Carpi's Italian Opera Company at the Star Theatre last night. In spite of adverse weather conditions, there was a packed house to greet the Company on the rise of the curtain.

The respective parts of Cho Cho San and of her sailor lover fell upon Signorina Ferrari and Signor Tumminello, the principal interest in the opera centring upon these two. Signorina Ferrari sang exquisitely, her voice and general appearance being such as one would associate with the dainty character of the part. Signor Tumminello also proved ideal as Pinkerton, his singing being beyond criticism.

Other parts were in the able hands of Signor Barontini, as Sharples, and Signor Maureri as Prince Yamadori. The chorus, on and off stage, was extremely well-balanced.

To-night, the Company present "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Il Pagliacci."

Alderman Brooks intimated that at the next meeting he would move that some changes should be made in the case of small villages.

A HONGKONG ELECTION.

Opportunities for residents of the Colony to exercise the franchise are few and far between. In the case of the Legislative Council, the public has practically no voice in the choice of members, due to the fact that the elective principle is not in operation so far as that body is concerned. It is true that the Chamber of Commerce and the Justices of Peace make their own selections, but even these nominations must be confirmed by the actual appointment being made by the Governor. There is one body, however, in regard to some seats on which a very large section of the public has the right to vote—namely, the Sanitary Board. Even so, elections do not occur very often, but past experience has shown that the public is keen on exercising its privilege when the opportunity does occur. One of these periodical elections will take place within the next few weeks, and, from what we can gather, there is a possibility of an interesting contest, as at least two, and possibly three, candidates may be forthcoming. So far, the only name made public in this connection is that of Mr. M. K. Lo, who has excellent backing in that he has been proposed by the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock and seconded by the Hon. Mr. W. E. L. Shenton. Mr. Lo is too well known locally to make it necessary for us to say a great deal about him. Like his father, Mr. Lo Cheung-shiu, he has been prominently identified with Chinese affairs in the Colony. His education and his legal training, however, have as well equipped him that he would be in every way competent to represent all sections of the community on the Board. As a sportsman, he is very well known and as popular with the European as with the Chinese community. It is a good sign to see young men coming forward to offer themselves for voluntary service on behalf of the public, and that is another reason why Mr. Lo's candidature will no doubt make a considerable appeal. As yet, there has been no definite intimation as to who will contest the seat with Mr. Lo, but if the latter should be elected we do not doubt that he will render useful service to the whole community.

Considering the lack of opportunity which Hongkong has of taking a direct part in local government, it says much for the civic spirit of its inhabitants that these little elections, when they come along, do arouse a considerable measure of public interest. This would be even more pronounced were all the unofficial members of the Legislative Council chosen by ballot instead of nomination. However, that time is not yet, although the day will no doubt come when means will be devised whereby the public can play a more active part in the selection of its legislators. In the meantime, the only opportunity provided for public voting is at the Sanitary Board Elections. The coming contest is to take place on May 22nd, and the electoral-roll will consist of Special and Common Jurors, together with certain other sections of the community ordinarily liable to, but exempt from, jury service. A point of some importance, of which due note should be taken by those affected, is that residents coming within the latter category will not be able to vote unless they have complied with the regulations in regard to registration of their claims. It is therefore up to any resident having doubts on the point to see that he is duly registered before the election-day. A call on the Registrar of the Supreme Court is all that is necessary to establish certainty on this matter.

Water Famine.

The weather has a few hours in which to appease the Water Authority for its past vagaries, the Colony's water famine having reached the stage where most drastic restrictions must be imposed on the whole community to-morrow unless official spirits are brightened by heavy rainstorms. It is many years since the Colony felt a shortage so acutely, and the trouble has not been lessened by failure in many cases to co-operate in the conservation of the little water there is in storage. The Government is not entirely to blame. Their luck, as we may call it, has been "dead out" this year. Royal Observatory statistics reveal the rather startling fact that the rainfall in the past four months has not been in excess of 2½ inches, and has, therefore, been approximately 8½ inches below normal. Measures taken by Government have been many, the most recent regulation, issued on Saturday, strictly prohibiting the washing of clothes "in any street, road or lane, within one hundred yards of any public fountain." The precise reason for the order is somewhat difficult to appreciate. We can only suppose that it is designed against the zealous woman who believes in washing her clothes in running water, thereby causing a dangerous waste. It would be interesting to know, however, if the Government intend to enforce this regulation, and if so, when it is proposed, to begin. Granted that it is new, we might, in ordinary circumstances, concede a reasonable period to accustom those affected to the new scheme of things; but direct connexion with the water famine is indication of its urgency, and yet it is being deliberately flouted. Common-sense would have dictated a patrol of public fountains by police officers to instruct those infringing the order regarding its existence. Yet nothing has been done. It is not necessary to investigate beyond a hundred yards of our office to realise this, though we fear that the culprits will be allowed pursue the even tenor of their ways, even as are the hawks.

CORRESPONDENCE.

A Complaint.

[To The Editor of Hongkong Telegraph.]

Sir,—I came down from Canton by this morning's express, and on coming off the ferry on the Hongkong side, an incident occurred that, to me, was very illuminating, implanting in my mind a deep impression of the way of officialdom here.

I had six suit cases in charge of a coolie. A constable in uniform stopped the coolie, and asked whether the baggage belonged to Europeans or Chinese. On my informing him that they were mine, he repeated the query as to nationality, and on my declaring that I was Chinese, he immediately ordered the bags to be opened to be searched.

The constable was most courteous throughout, and I have no complaint whatever against him personally, but the part of the proceedings that struck me most forcibly was the officer's distinct desire to know the nationality of the owner of the baggage before he could decide whether it was necessary to institute the search, and the difference in his manner when plying his questions and learning the answer.

Would the baggage have been opened and searched had an European been the owner? And the answer that I am led to give is "No." The attitude of the constable and the manner in which he phrased and put his question gave me the very distinct impression that the differentiation must have been included in his instructions as to his duties. I fully realise this is a very strong statement to make, but the proceedings as a whole leave me no option but to incline to this belief.

Racial friction is a very sore subject that has been very much in the fore during the last few years, but I make no apologies for bringing it again into the limelight. The incident that befell me, if it be typical of the sort of treatment that Chinese transit visitors receive, gives an inkling as to the cause of the bitter anti-foreign feeling that prevailed throughout the days of the strike, and, to a certain extent, is still existent now.—Yours, etc.,

Y. S. CHEN.

Hongkong, Apr. 29th 1929.

[The concluding portion of this letter has been excised, as we feel that the tone of the comment is not likely to be helpful. The airing of the correspondent's grievance will, we think, suffice.—Ed. H.K.T.]

BRIDGE MADE EASY by W.W. Wentworth

With the information furnished by your partner's bid you experience no difficulty in your opening lead—as a rule you lead your partner's suit. When, however, your partner has not bid, you may find yourself in a quandary as you prepare to play your first card.

Under these circumstances, the novice is in a particularly embarrassing position. He usually hesitates, pulls a card, puts it back in his hand and then, obviously perplexed, draws a card blindly. He leads it in hit-or-miss fashion, hoping he has played the right card.

The player who leads first must open in a manner that will neither strengthen the declarer nor weaken his partner. The lead must not place the latter under fire so that he closes an otherwise winning card.

Games are most frequently won or lost by incorrect leads. To memorize a table of leads is not only a very difficult and laborious task but it is unnecessary if you acquire the fundamental principles involved. Your aim in leading should be to establish a winning card or suit in your partner's hand or your own. You must determine not only what is the best suit to open but what is the best card to lead in that suit.

When you are playing the game at no trump, your problem is comparatively simple: You usually lead the fourth card from the top of your longest and strongest suit, or, when you hold three honours you usually lead one of the honours.

Two trams, Nos. 67 and 71, a motor lorry No. 1,148 and a cart were involved in a collision yesterday, this occurring at 4.10 p.m. opposite the Wing Lok Street Wharf. Although one of the trams was slightly damaged, there was fortunately no loss of

The Very Idea!

Two women doctors appeared before the Paris correctional court recently, one of whom was accused of attempting to murder the other with a stiletto.

Dr. Gobert, the victim, was not seriously injured, so the court took a lenient view and sentenced Dr. Marguerite Champagne, the accused, to three years' imprisonment with suspended sentence, 100 francs fine and 10,000 francs (£80) damages.

The two women were close friends until Dr. Champagne forged Dr. Gobert's signature on a prescription for morphine. When she heard about it Dr. Gobert rushed to the chemist to stop the sale and violently reproached her friend, who feared that she would be summoned.

"I was terrified, and my only idea was to kill her and then commit suicide," Dr. Champagne told the court that she went to Dr. Gobert's home, and while her friend's back was turned stabbed her.

Dr. Gobert, the stronger woman, was able to master her younger and slighter friend, break a pane of glass and call for help.

The court cleared Dr. Champagne of the imputation that she was addicted to morphine.

Thackeray was once driving to the Dorby with a party of friends, amongst whom was the eminent Frenchman, Montalembert. A jovial costermonger was passed on the road, joggling along with a cartload of congenial spirits, all indulging in uproarious jocularity, after the manner of their kind.

"Ah, Monsieur," said Montalembert, "are these what you call your Jack Tars?"

"No," replied Thackeray dryly; "these are only our Epsom Salts."

SHIP MANAGER'S CONVICTION.THE "CHARLES HARDOUIN" CASE AGAIN COMES UP.

REHEARING GRANTED.

The case in which Mr. Chow Joo-hoo, the manager of the San Nam Steamship Co., was fined $1,000 at the Marine Court last Wednesday by the Hon. Commr. G. F. Hole was recalled this morning when Mr. Leo d'Almada, Sr., made an application for a rehearing of the case.

It will be remembered that Mr. Chow Joo-hoo was summoned by Mr. A. G. Corbin, the late Chief Officer of the s.s. Charles Hardouin, for going on the navigation bridge without permission and "behaving in such a manner as to obstruct, impede or molest complainant in the navigation of the ship." The complainant was represented by Mr. G. K. Hall Brutton, while Mr. F. H. Lee appeared on behalf of the defendant. After evidence had been taken, defendant was found guilty of the charges and was fined $1,000. Commr. Hole remarking that it was not infrequent on the China Coast to hear of Chinese owners holding a threat of dismissal over the heads of European officers and that the practice of interfering with officers in the execution of their duty must be stopped.

In making his application this morning, Mr. d'Almada said the proceedings were taken under Section 96 of the Magistrates' Ordinance and were based both on legal grounds as well as on circumstances.

His Worship granted the application and the case was adjourned vide die for consideration.

DISTRICT COURT

$51.85, and on November 9 for $11.30, all of which were drawn by the officer commanding the Machine Gun Company, and that on or about May 5 he received a cheque for $29.10 drawn by the officer commanding "A" Company, all of which cheques were endorsed and made payable to Major Ogilvie and delivered by him to the accused for the purposes of paying in to the Chartered Bank, and that accused failed to do so but cashed them all and used the proceeds for his own use, with intent to defraud.

This was given in alternative form for the sixth charge, while on the seventh charge was charged with receiving between Jan. 1 and July 15 last year, on behalf of the President, from Lance Corporal Oxenham and Lance Corporal Greeve, non-commissioned officers in charge of the billiard tables for private soldiers at Murray Barracks, a sum of $229.60 and that he only accounted for $152.60, the difference of $77 being used for his own purposes.

More Charges.

The eighth charge was an alternative, and the ninth accused Hendry of receiving from Ping Sing-chun, on behalf of the President of the Institute, a sum of $80, on or about May 1 $80, on June 1 and July 4 sums of $70, on August 2, September 2, and October 3 $70 and on November 3 $80 from Sing-chun, on behalf of Neque and Tangmen, regimental contractors, for by-products, and failed to account for the said sums.

On other charges he was accused of failing to make entries in the books of accounts kept by him and on the fourteenth charge was accused of fraudulently entering in his cash book of the by-product account a sum of $100 as having been received by him, whereas the sum was really received for rent rebate and electric light. Another charge also concerned a similar alleged wrong entry in the books.

The rendering of the charges occupied half an hour.

Embezzlement Involved.

Opening the case for the prosecution, Mr. Wadson said that although there were fifteen charges, some were closely connected. In some cases the charge was that of embezzling goods and it was also given in the alternative form of fraudulent misapplication of money. It was important to remember, he said, that as soon as the cheques were cashed, the money was embezzled. Evidence of guilty intention could be what steps accused took to conceal what he was doing, if he did take such steps, what entries he made in his books, or whether he told anyone of what he was doing.

With regard to the charges concerning entries in the books, they were also closely connected. Evidence would show that money was received from other sources and the amounts given in other books. He would suggest that the reason was to make an entry where no entry existed on account of money being misapplied.

Speaking of the first charge, Mr. Wadson said accused went

PEACE SENTIMENT.

Canton, Apr. 29. As I cabled yesterday, it is officially stated that Mr. Chu Chao-hsin, Commissioner for Foreign Affairs to the Provincial Government of Kwangtung, has sent in his resignation, following an interview which he had a few days ago with General Chan Ming-shu in Hongkong. His resignation has been accepted, and Mr. C. Y. Leung will act as Commissioner for Foreign Affairs until a new appointment is made.

The resignation of Mr. Chu Chao-hsin does not come as a surprise and may probably be set down more to personal motives than to political reasons. It has been known for some time that he did not get on too well with the other members of the Provincial Government and it is not so very long ago that he was removed from his post of Superintendent of the Chinese Maritime Customs in Canton and succeeded by Mr. Pan Kee-mo.

Although the situation in Canton is at present very quiet, there is nevertheless a certain feeling of anxiety under the surface. The Government is doing all in its power to prevent any disturbances, and amongst other wise precautions is the cancellation of the usual May Day holiday; there are to be no parades on that day; in fact, work is to go on as usual except that it is to be paid at the rate of overtime.

There are no fresh developments to report in the Canton-Kwangsi situation. Though war has been declared, there is nevertheless a very strong peace party in Canton. Both General Chaitong and Admiral Chan Chak, acting under instructions from Nanking, are anxious to start an expedition against Kwangsi, but it is felt they are not getting the full support of their subordinates, most of whom want peace at any cost, whilst many probably feel more sympathy with Kwangsi than with Nanking.—Our Own Correspondent.

SECOND BOMB
OUTRAGE AT HALLUIN.COMMUNIST VIOLENCE
CHECKS RETURN TO WORK.

Paris, Apr. 3. A second bomb outrage has occurred at Halluin, the "Red" factory town 10 miles from Lille. A hand grenade was thrown into the house of a workman who refused to go on strike, but fortunately it failed to explode. The workman had frequently been threatened with bodily harm if he continued to work, and on three occasions the front of his house had been coated with pitch.

A thousand workers returned to work yesterday, but the number would have been considerably higher were not the men terrified by Communist violence.

to the President of the Institute, at that time Major Lake, and asked for a cheque for $30.57 to pay a bill which had been incurred for cleaning materials.

Major Lake gave him the cheque and there would be evidence that it was cashed. In the case of another charge, Mr. Wadson said that Major Ogilvie was the President of the Institute at that time. In this case, a cheque came in from the Machine Gun Company and in due course was taken by the Corporal to the Major for endorsement. The cheque never found its way to the bank.

Mr. Wadson went on to give details of the other charges and said that in connexion with the billiard tables there were no complete records of sums which should have been paid in, but the total had been arrived at from records available. Mr. Wadson alleged that only part of the money had been entered in the books.

"Series of Frauds." Dealing with book entries, he alleged that false entries had been made to cover up certain omissions. One or two entries might be mistakes, he said, but when there were many cases it ceased to be a coincidence and became a series of frauds.

The first witness was Mr. J. L. Ashworth, sub-accountant of the Chartered Bank, who said he was in charge of the current accounts, including a number for the King's Own Scottish Borderers. There was the P.R.I. General Account, the Barrack Damage Account, the By-Product Account and the Memorial Fund Account. Witness produced extracts from the books of the bank and cheques which had been paid, drawn on various accounts kept with Bank. He stated that the cheques were not paid into the accounts but came to the Chartered Bank from other banks after they had been cashed.

The Court is still sitting.

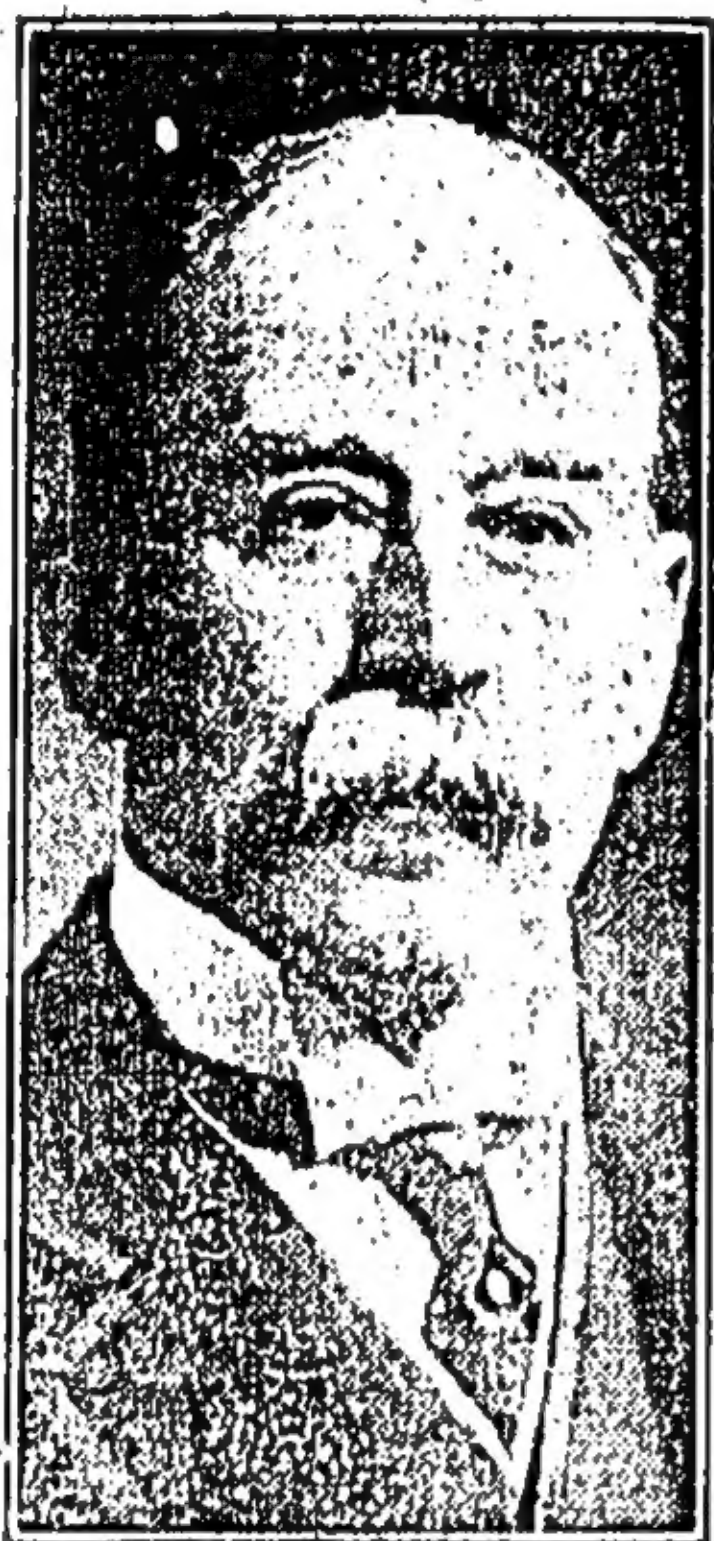

VISCOUNT YOUNGER
DIES SUDDENLY.FORMER CHAIRMAN OF THE UNIONIST PARTY.

THEATRE TRAGEDY.

London, Apr. 29. The death has occurred, under tragic circumstances, of Viscount Younger of Leckie, former Chairman of the Unionist Party Organisation.

Lord Younger collapsed whilst attending a West-End Theatre and was conveyed to hospital, where he died.—Reuter.

The late Viscount was better known as Sir George Younger, chairman of George Younger and Son, Ltd., the well-known brewers of Alloa. He was knighted in 1911 and in 1923 was raised to the Peerage. Born in 1861, he was educated at Edinburgh Academy and after several unsuccessful attempts to enter Parliament he became M.P. for the Ayr Burghs in 1906, holding the seat until 1922.

He was a member of the Royal Commission on the Licensing Laws, 1896; President of the County Councils Association of Scotland, 1902-04; President of the National Union of Conservative Associations in Scotland, 1904; a Director of the National Bank of Scotland, the North British and Mercantile Insurance Co., Lloyds Bank, and the Southern Railway. He was Chairman of the Unionist Party Organisation from 1916 to 1923 and from the latter year had been its Treasurer.

He was Lord Lieutenant of the County of Stirling and Vice-Lord Lieutenant of the County of Clackmannan.

The heir to the title is Lieut.-Col. the Hon. James Younger, D.S.O., T.F. Reserve, late Fifth and Forfar Yeomanry, who in 1906 married the eldest daughter of Sir John Gilmore. He served in the war from 1914 to 1919, was wounded, mentioned in despatches and given the D.S.O. decoration.

A RAID REVEALS
DAGGERS.ARRESTED MEN FREE AFTER BEING CHARGED.

EVIDENCE TOO WEAK.

Mr. Horace Lo appeared before Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, to defend the third of three Chinese charged with being in unlawful possession of two daggers in an unnumbered hut at the So Uk village, Cheung Sha Wan.

In reply to his Worship, Detective Sergeant Fitchers said he had been instructed to withdraw the charge against the second and third defendants and proceed with the case against the first.

His Worship (to Mr. Lo):—Your appearance has been very effective, Mr. Lo.

Mr. Lo:—I don't think it was due to me.

Evidence was taken in the case against the first defendant. It was stated that during a raid at the house on the afternoon of April 26, the police found two daggers under the defendant's bed.

The prosecution called Mr. Lo's client, who was the principal tenant of the premises. This witness said the cubicle in which the daggers were found was occupied solely by the defendant. Nobody else used the room.

The defendant claimed that the daggers had been left by a marine hawk, who also lived in the house, and cross-examined the witness about this man. The principal tenant admitted that during the latter part of the marine hawk's stay on the premises he had frequently gone into the defendant's cubicle, sometimes sleeping with the defendant. The marine hawk left on April 23 and had not been seen since.

After hearing further evidence, his Worship said there was some doubt about the case and he did not think any jury would convict. The doubt was that the marine hawk might have put the daggers where they had been found. The defendant was discharged.

MUSICAL COMEDY.

BANVARD COMPANY IN GOOD FORM.

An extremely bright "show," "Clowns in Clover," was presented by the Banvard Musical Comedy Company at the Theatre Royal last night, the audience being kept in good humour and frequent merriment as the various items were presented.

The Company certainly excels in burlesque, several of the sketches convulsing the house with laughter. The whole show goes with a swing from the first to the final item, the individual work of each member being very good.

To-night "Lido Lady" will be played, the final performance taking place to-morrow when an entirely new revue will be presented.

We can thoroughly recommend all those who enjoy an evening's laughable entertainment to book seats for the last two nights.

OVERSIGHT BY A MAGISTRATE.HANKOW BARRACKS TRESPASS
CASE ENDS.

CHINESE CONVICTED.

An oversight on the part of the Magistrate in a case of trespassing in the Hankow Barracks was rectified by Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, when the charge brought against a Chinese who was remanded from yesterday was concluded.

When the case was called, Detective Sergeant Meadows said he thought the charge which was preferred against the defendant yesterday was quite in order. The indictment was brought under Section 4A of Ordinance No. 1 of 1895 and he thought that his Worship had over-looked the "A."

His Worship read the section which states:—"Any person who, without lawful authority or excuse, is found in or upon any battery, or in or upon any place, whether fortified or not, which is set apart or reserved for naval or military operations or purposes and which the general public have no right to enter into or upon, shall be guilty of an offence and shall, on summary conviction, be liable to a fine not exceeding $500, or to imprisonment for any term not exceeding six months."

His Worship:—Oh yes, it certainly comes under that.

The defendant, in pleading to the charge, said he had gone to the barracks to look for a friend.

His Worship:—What were you doing with the biscuits?

Defendant:—I didn't take any biscuits.

His Worship:—Well, there's no use taking the evidence. He admits being there without having a pass.

Detective Sergeant Meadows said he would like to mention that the defendant was arrested to put a stop to petty larcenies which have been going on at the Barracks. People had been getting into the barracks during the night and had stolen anything they found. It was just to make an example of the defendant that the present case was brought.

His Worship:—Was 4A stated on the charge I saw yesterday?

Sergeant Meadows:—Yes, your Worship. It was on the police charge sheet, but I don't know if it was on the Court charge.

His Worship:—I must have overlooked it.

The defendant was fined $7, or ten days' hard labour.

WILSON EXTRADITION CASE.FURTHER APPEAL TO BE MADE.

Joseph L. Wilson, "wanted" for embezzlement, has reached Manila after his extradition from Macao. A doctrine set by the Philippine Supreme Court in 1902 will be invoked by Gregorio Perfecto, counsel for Wilson, in a move that will soon be started to get the high tribunal to hear the dismissed appeal from the trial court's decision sentencing Wilson to 21 years' imprisonment.

According to Mr. Perfecto there are two recourses reconsideration of the appeal and habeas corpus. He stated it probably will be a petition for reconsideration.

The ruling Mr. Perfecto will invoke and upon which a petition for reconsideration will be based, is laid down in the criminal case against F. S. Lewis, an American resident of Manila, convicted of larceny by the city Court of First Instance in October, 1902.

THREW PIECE OF IRON.CHINESE ORDERED TO BE BIRCHED.

When Major C. Willson ordered a Chinese youth to pay $2 as compensation to a ricksha coolie, on whom he had accidentally inflicted a wound on the forehead by throwing a piece of iron at him, he protested saying that he would rather go to goal for seven days than to pay the compensation, as he had in his pocket only about a dollar.

The police informed the Magistrate that the defendant meant to throw the iron to a small boy, but accidentally hit the coolie.

His Worship said that made the case all the worse, and he ordered the defendant to receive eight strokes of the birch.

MURDER CASE— SURPRISE.

MAN ACCUSED OF COMMANDING WOMAN.

Liverpool, Apr. 3.
Henry Senar, aged 34, an unemployed marine steward, was remanded at Liverpool to-day charged with counselling, procuring, and commanding Mrs. Annie Stewart to murder her two children at Princes-view, Liverpool, on March 18. He was also charged with the murder of the children.

Mrs. Stewart has been committed to the Assizes on a charge of murder.

Mr. Digby Seymour (prosecuting) said that Senar, who lived with his wife and four children, became acquainted with Mrs.
Stewart, unknown to her husband, about eight months ago and there had been frequent meetings in Sefton Park and at Mrs.
Stewart's home. On the morning of the murder he entered the house by the back door without knocking. About 12.30 Mrs.
Stewart appeared to be nervous whether a man had been seen to enter her house and inquired about it.

Senar, he said, had been identified as the man who was near the house about 12.45 and who was told by Norman Stewart (who was afterwards found dead) that his mother wanted him back in the house. The man and the boy returned.

Chief Inspector Burgess said that Senar, when charged, said,
"Not guilty."

"The case is ridiculous," declared Senar from the dock. He applied for legal aid, but was told that this could not be granted at present.

SEASON'S LEAGUE CHAMPIONS.

CHINESE DEFEAT SOMERSETS IN RE-PLAY.

SPLENDID DISPLAY.

(By "Wanderer.")

While the re-play was as keenly contested as Saturday's match, there was much less excitement in the League championship final between the Somersets and the Chinese Athletic. The Athletic won by two goals to one, and the feat was commendable in view of the fact that they lost Wong Shui-wa, their centre-half, for more than half the game.

The Somersets were more leg-weary than their opponents, and Hall had a vast amount of work to get through. The first goal came some ten minutes from the start, Wong Pak-chong taking a perfectly placed centre, and side-footing it past Hall from close range.

The Somersets warmed up after the interval, when the score was unchanged, and had they pressed home their attack would have won by a fair margin. For a long period the Athletic were penned in their own half of the field, but the Somersets did not look like a scoring side, their forwards throwing away good opportunities
by wild kicking and sometimes aimless passing.

The equaliser came twenty minutes from the end, Bewley Hall putting in a long dropping shot,
which deceived Chai Suck-pui, struck the inside of the far post
and rebounded into goal.

With five minutes, the Athletic broke through on the right, and scored. It developed from a serious lapse by Chedzey, who took Li Wal-koon instead of the ball. Li recovered first, slipped the ball to Wong Pak-chong, who drew Hayward and, middled the ball to Suen and Chan Kwong-ui,
who were lying practically unmarked.

Even then the Somersets had a chance, but Hall ran out and Chan Kwong-ui's shot was successful.

The Athletic relied on the defensive for the rest of the game, and held out comfortably.

The season thus ends with the Chinese Athletic champions of the League, and South China the winners of the Senior Shield Competition.

The outstanding players for the Athletic was Lam Yuk-ying, who took the centre-half berth and smothered the Somersets attack in great style. All the Chinese forwards were in good fettle, and Lal Yuk-tat was the better of the backs.

Hayward again played well, but his partner was rather erratic.
The Somersets were handicapped by an injury to Knapp, which allowed the Chinese left wing much freer scope.

MR. MESSER QUITE SATISFIED.

"The signature was a damn sight too neat for me and I must have had a very steady hand."

Mr. Sheldon:—Did you have any doubt that the signature was a forged signature?—No doubt at all.

Was it clear to Mr. Proctor at the end of that interview that you had no doubt?—It must have been.

Witness was then handed a letter from the Hongkong Bank which he admitted receiving on January 19.
The letter asked for confirmation of the balance of account. To this witness replied to the effect that according to the Treasury accounts the figure stated by the Bank was wrong, there being a deficit which appeared to be accounted for by the amounts on the three disputed cheques.

That letter, said witness, was received on the day after the interview with Mr. Proctor.

Obtained by a Trick?

So that whatever the remainder of the Hongkong Bank thought on January 19, it was clear that Mr.
Proctor knew that you had repudiated that signature before that letter was written?—It should have been clear.

Was there any conversation about the possibility of the cheques having been obtained by a trick?—I believe there was.

Anything definite?—No, nothing definite.

Questioned with regard to the names of the payees, Mr. Messer said he had stated in the presence of Mr. Proctor that the names were unfamiliar.

Witness went on to say that if he had known cheques were missing he would immediately have informed the Bank. What he would have done if the numbers on the covers of the cheque books had been altered and initialled, witness said it was hard to say as he had never come across such a case.

On January 19, Mr. Grayburn rang witness up on the telephone and the following conversation took place, according to Mr.
Messer. Mr. Grayburn said:
"What about these cheques, the signatures are genuine." Witness replied "They are not." Mr.
Grayburn: "At any rate Mr.
Black in my office said that was his signature." Witness replied:

"Mr. Black says it is not" and rang off.

Signatures Repudiated.

Mr. Messer said he thought he had made it clear to Mr. Grayburn, by that conversation, that he himself repudiated the signatures, but he could not tell what was in Mr.
Grayburn's mind.

Replying to his Lordship, Mr.
Messer said that that conversation took place before the receipt of the letter from the Bank.

A Firm Conviction.

After lengthy examination on his handwriting, Mr. Messer said, in reply to Mr. Sheldon, that he was convinced of the spurious nature of the disputed cheques the first time he set his eyes upon them. That conviction had remained unabated and unshaken throughout the present case.

After agreement with details read out by Mr. Sheldon as to his earlier posts, witness said he was appointed to the Colonial Treasury in December, 1918, a post which he had occupied since. Mr. Black was transferred to the Treasury in 1925, being appointed Accountant
in the following year.

Replying to Mr. Sheldon, witness said he had always found Mr.
Black competent and dutiful, and his services were satisfactory.
Tsang On-wing, continued witness, joined the Treasury in August, 1920, on transferment
from the Imports and Exports Office. He had performed his duties to witness' entire satisfaction.

Bank and Government.

Referring to what Mr. Sheldon put as the "contractual relations" between the Treasury and the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank, witness said he was not aware of any contract between them in regard to the custody of the cheques, or of any contract to the effect that cheques issued by the Bank to the Treasury should not be allowed to get into the hands of strangers. Nor had he heard of any contract which made it a condition that the cheque books be kept in the safe when not in use.

Counsel:—The contractual relations between you and the Hongkong Bank are the ordinary relations between a banker and customer?

Witness agreed.

Witness said the routine was to order a new cheque book when there was not one left in reserve
in the safe, that being to afford

TENNIS BALLS.

NEW RULING OF LOCAL ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting held last week, the Hongkong Tennis Association adopted a new ruling regarding its previous ruling by which only Slazenger balls had been permitted to be used in the local League tournaments.
The new ruling now permits the use in local League tournaments of any make of "standard" ball.
In effect this disallows the stitched type of ball, and thus brings the Hongkong Tennis Association into line with the International Tennis Federation, which disallows the stitched type. It is pointed out that the objection leading to the official banning of the stitched type of ball was that in play the seams in the stitched type become "raised,"
and thus gives an added and unnatural spin off the racket.

Samples of the new Dunlop tennis ball were submitted for the approval of the Hongkong Tennis Association and permission has been granted for the use of the Dunlop ball in local League fixtures, which are scheduled to commence on Saturday, May 4.

MUZZLING OF DOGS.ATTITUDE OF THE S.P.C.A. DEFINED.

The annual general meeting of the Hongkong Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was held at the office of Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co., Ltd., yesterday afternoon. Mr. D. H. Blake presided over a small attendance.

Mr. W. B. Finnigan was appointed president for the ensuing year. Mr. J. Buchanan was appointed Hon. Secretary, and the same committee as last year was also appointed.

In his speech Mr. Blake said: During the past year the S.P.C.A. continued their work in the same manner as heretofore. The Committee have been obliged through financial reasons to reduce the number of Inspectors from three to two. Mr. Fowler, the Chief Inspector, was engaged during the year. He resides at No. 1 East Point Terrace. Mr. O'Brien can be found at the Dogs' Home, Kowloon, any afternoon between 2.30 p.m. and 4.30 p.m. (Sundays excepted). His telephone No. is K. 1152.

It was thought advisable to take severe measures against certain shops and stalls where persistent cruelty to birds and beasts was discovered. Consequently during the period under review there have been a larger number of prosecutions than usual. The publicity given in the newspapers to the Police Court proceedings has undoubtedly had a beneficial effect.

The Dogs' Home has been improved by the construction of a matched roof which protects the dogs from the sun's rays.

Muzzling of Dogs.

From time to time correspondence has appeared in the newspapers referring to the legislation and regulations enforced with regard to the muzzling and shooting of dogs and correspondents have enquired why the S.P.C.A. have not taken active steps in the matter. I would refer to my speech at the last annual meeting in which I stated that the Committee had been granted an interview with the Acting Colonial Secretary, the Captain Superintendent of Police and the Colonial Veterinary Surgeon and thoroughly discussed the question both of the muzzling and the destruction of dogs. The present drastic regulations are regarded by the Authorities as essential for the purpose of combatting the dreaded disease of Rabies. The more the general public assist by complying with the law the sooner the regulations can be modified.

At the same time, however, the Committee will always be ready to take up cases in which dogs have been shot in circumstances which are manifestly unreasonable.

The Boy Scouts competed for the Pollock Cup which was presented last year. Several well thought out essays were submitted to the judges, and the award was made in favour of D. Hunt, 6th Troop.

The Girl Guides also competed for the Cup presented by the Society, but the subject chosen was misunderstood by the competitors with the result that the essays, although showing signs of hard work, were not of the high standard that the Society had hoped for. The cup was awarded to the essay written by Phyllis Anderson, of the 2nd Kowloon Co. No doubt still keener interest will be taken in the competitions this year both by the Boy Scouts and the Girl Guides.

Finance Problems.

The Society went through an anxious period with regard to finance. Unfortunately, the date for the drive for subscriptions was not well chosen and, in addition to this, owing to a series of misunderstandings some subscription cards were not distributed or collected as promptly as could have been desired. In consequence there was a considerable falling off in the subscriptions and the Committee was faced with a shortage of funds. Our Patron, His Excellency the Governor, very kindly recommended the Society as the recipient of the proceeds of a benefit performance given by the Harmonium Circus. The Society received $868 from this source and we wish to express sincere thanks to Mr. Harmonium for his generosity.

The Committee organised a highly successful Fancy Dress Dinner Dance at the Peninsula Hotel. Two hundred and fifty persons were present and spent a very enjoyable evening. The or-

BOMBAY DISTURBED.NEARLY 150,000 MILL HANDS NOW ON STRIKE.

Bombay, Apr. 29.

The mill strike, due to alleged victimisation, is almost general. Nearly 150,000 hands are involved. The situation is complicated by fears of communal trouble. For example, a Hindu-Muslim brawl on April 27 has revived rumours of inter-communal rioting, but beyond a few stray assaults the city is quiet.—Reuter.

ganisers have since received many enquiries as to when the next dance will be held. There is sure to be one early next year, when it is hoped that still greater numbers will attend.

As mentioned at the general meeting last year, the Committee considered the question of forming a regular list of members of the Society. All persons who gave donations at the drive for subscription in November last were asked whether they wished to become members, but in nearly all cases the reply was in the negative. The system upon which we have been working in the past appears to be the most satisfactory; namely, the Society is for the benefit of the general public and any person is entitled to ask for our assistance. On the other hand, the Society looks to the support of the general public to meet its expenditure.

The Society suffered a loss in the departure of Mr. B. O. Blaker, who has acted as Hon. Secretary for several years. His place has been filled by Mr. J. Buchanan, who has carried out his duties admirably.

Thanks.

The Society desire to express their thanks to the Jockey Club for their donation of $1,000 and express the hope that it will be renewed. To Mr. M. J. Patell for kindly having again given $300, to Messrs. Jardine, Matheson and Co. Ltd. for the use of their Board Room for our committee meetings and annual general meetings and last but far from least to the Press for the very kind assistance that they have given to the Society on many occasions and particularly in connexion with the drive for the collection of subscriptions and the fancy dress ball.

WOMAN NURTURED BY MONKEYS.LIFE WITH APES IN THE FOREST.

Berlin, Mar. 29.

Well-authenticated cases have been reported from time to time from India of human beings nurtured by animals in the jungle, like Kipling's Mowgli.

Further evidence that Mowgli are something more than a mere product of the imagination now comes from that part of the Cameroons which has been under British administration since the war.

The account is contained in a letter dated February 25 last, which the Berlin director of a plantation company operating in the interior to the north-east of Port Victoria has received from one of his local officials. The story may best be given in the writer's words, which the Berlin director has kindly placed at my disposal.

"I have recently heard," he states, "of a typical African affair. On a neighbouring plantation a negro elephant huntsman shot, in the midst of the primeval forest from a head of monkeys a particularly fine specimen, which was sitting in the fork of a tree, and immediately fell dead.

The Discovery.

"Imagine his astonishment when he found that instead of a monkey he had shot a black woman. He sped like one pursued by devils (negroes are terribly superstitious) to 'Victoria' and reported the affair to the district officer. All efforts to trace the origin of the woman remained in vain.

"Finally, the conclusion was drawn that the woman had been kidnapped as a child and nurtured by the monkeys.

"The huntsman was acquitted, and received back his rifle from the district officer. He was, of course, satisfied as to his innocence, otherwise he would never have reported the matter. Nor indeed had he any occasion for alarm, for no human being had been in this deserted virgin forest for years, whilst the woman on any other assumption would have been torn to pieces by the animals on the first night of her arrival.

The Berlin director is satisfied that his informant is a man in every way reliable and not prone to the narration of fantastic stories. Since, moreover, the case

WHITEHALL AND "ONE GOAT."MINISTER'S SPECIAL ORDER TO PERMIT LANDING.

London, Mar. 30.

A special Order of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, which occupies nearly half a page in the London Gazette, has been made to give official sanction to the entry of a single animal into the United Kingdom.

The Order is headed, "Authorisation of Landing of Animal for Exceptional Purposes."

The Office Seal of the Minister was "hereunto affixed" last Wednesday.

In the first schedule attached to the Order the animal is described as "One goat, the property of the Theatre Guild Inc. of New York, brought from the United States of America, and to be landed in the Port of Plymouth from the steamship 'Columbus' on or before the ninth day of April, nineteen hundred and twenty-nine."

The Order lays down that "the animal" on being landed shall be moved forthwith to premises defined as a "Foreign Animals Quarantine Station," and there detained and kept separate from all other animals for 28 days.

The second schedule of the Order describes the "Quarantine Station" as "Premises at His Majesty's Theatre, Haymarket, S.W.1 in the occupation of Mr. C. B. Cochran."

The Order provides that the goat cannot be landed till it has been examined by a veterinary inspector of the Ministry, and certified by him to be free from symptoms of contagious disease.

has been officially investigated by the British authorities. It should not be difficult to obtain first-hand confirmation. As a contribution to the science of animal behaviour, the story is certainly one which merits searching inquiry.

For Fretful Babies.
Wise Mothers Use Baby's Own Tablets Because They Are Free From Opium.

Fretfulness in young children is usually due to stomach trouble. The use of soothing syrups fails to correct the cause of the trouble, is harmful, and is also unnecessary because Baby's Own Tablets, guaranteed absolutely pure and safe, will sweeten the stomach, restore normal intestinal regularity, allay feverishness, and quickly bring comfort which allows the child to fall into a natural, calm and health-restoring sleep.

"My little girls, four months old, cried all day long," says Mrs. Oscar Campbell, of No. 141 Chestnut street, Central Falls, R. I., "and was restless at night. She was troubled with indigestion and sour stomach and nothing seemed to help her. Finally a friend recommended Baby's Own Tablets and the very first I gave her made her rest easy. She seldom cries now and is better in every way."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by chemists everywhere, or post free, 60 cents per vial, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 60, Kiangse Road, Shanghai.

KOWLOON TRAFFIC.

MILITARY OFFICER FINED FOR SPEEDING.

On a charge of driving a motor car at a speed which was dangerous to the public, Captain R. H. Bakewell of the Somerset Light Infantry, was fined $20 by Mr. T. S. Whyte Smith at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday afternoon.

The defendant, in answer to the charge, said that he did not admit driving to the danger of the public but did admit driving fast.

Sergeant Serim said that at about 12.15 a.m. on April 9 he was on duty in Nathan Road near the junction of Jordan Road. He saw private motor car No. 417 going towards the Star Ferry at a high speed. Witness stated that the car was travelling at 65 miles per hour from Austin Road to Salisbury Road.

The defendant asked witness if the road was crowded or had there been much traffic at the time.

Witness replied that there were a few people about but the road was not crowded.

The defendant, in making a statement, said that he was taking two friends to catch the last Stonecutters Ferry which left at 12.15 a.m. As he had already admitted he was travelling fast but he did not admit that he was driving to the danger of the public. He had been driving for 14 years and had never been convicted before.

His Worship said that he was afraid he could not take into consideration the amount of hurry or the reason for the defendant's hurry. The speed of 65 miles an hour seemed to him to be too excessive.

In reply to his Worship Sergeant Serim said that the buses had not stopped running while there were also some rickshaws about at the time.

His Worship registered a conviction and imposed a fine of $20.

TRAMS INTERRUPTED.

SERVICE STOPPED BY COLLAPSE OF SCAFFOLDING.

Due primarily to the rain last evening, the scaffolding surrounding the old Hongkong Hotel site at the junction of Pedder Street and Des Voeux Road, collapsed about 8.30 p.m. and caused an interruption to the tram service.

It appears that the rain of the earlier part of the evening had softened the ground somewhat, and with a slight breeze the scaffolding collapsed into Des Voeux Road, the overhead wires preventing the structure from falling to the ground.

The collapse temporarily interfered with the tram service, all cars arriving from the West having to stop at the Post Office and return to Kennedy Town and Whitty Street. Cars from the East terminated their journeys at the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank. The obstruction was soon cleared, however, and a normal service resumed.

MOTOR MISHAPS.

SEVERAL COLLISIONS YES- TERDAY BUT NO DAMAGE.

Minor motor accidents figured prominently in the daily reports which were received at the Police Stations during the whole of yesterday. The incidents were all collisions, but in none of the instances was any appreciable damage caused.

A report was made by the driver of a motor lorry who was conveying a load of iron bars to the Observatory, Kowloon, that while ascending the hill he missed his gear and the vehicle started to run backwards. He applied the brakes but the lining apparently burned out. The lorry collided with the rear of Dr. F. M. Grace Ozorio's car which was parked outside the Observatory Building, causing slight damage to the stationary vehicle.

A European whose name was not given was mentioned as having been involved in a collision which took place in Des Voeux Road Central between a motor cycle and a public car. The driver of the latter vehicle reported the incident to the Police, and stated that the number of the cycle was 715. No damage was caused.

The driver of a public motor car informed the Police that while driving near the Macao Wharf yesterday afternoon he came in collision with a hand truck and a tram car, but little damage was caused.

A public motor car collided with private car No. 2440 in Caine Road yesterday afternoon but neither vehicle was damaged.

DUKE'S VISIT.

THE CHINESE ADDRESS.

The following letter has been sent by His Excellency the Governor to Sir Shouson Chow thanking him and the whole Chinese community for their entertainment of His Royal Highness The Duke of Gloucester.

My dear Sir Shouson.—Please accept my sincere thanks for all that you and the whole Chinese community did for the entertainment of H. R. H. The Duke of Gloucester. The Chinese address was very beautiful, and nothing could have been better than the arrangements made for the Chinese luncheon party at the Kam Ling Restaurant. I know that His Royal Highness admired the address, and much enjoyed the entertainment, and I shall be glad if you will convey an expression of his appreciation and mine to all concerned.

Yours very sincerely,
(Sd.) C. CLEMENTI.

Attention has been called to the fact that it was stated in error that the Chinese address and luncheon at the Kam Ling Restaurant were given by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, when in fact they were given by the whole Chinese community.

DETECTIVE THRILLER!

THE BLACK PIGEON.

By Anne Austin.

CHAPTER XIX.

"Just a minute, Birdwell," Mc Mann answered, then turned to the real estate man, Bill Cowan, who was obviously eager to escape. "Cowan, I'm inclined to let you go on about your business and not hold you as a material witness, if you give me your promise not to talk with anyone—reporters, your wife, anyone else—about this case, and will promise further not to leave town, but hold yourself available for further questioning."

Cowan gave both promises with almost ludicrous alacrity and bolted, after another apologetic grip of Jack Hayward's hand. The waiter, Phillips, was ushered in—a small, neat, middle-aged man in a well-brushed black overcoat, snugly buttoned over his waiter's uniform.

After preliminary questions as to his name, place of residence and occupation, Mc Mann asked: "Ever see this couple before, Phillips?"

Meek brown eyes studied Ruth Lester and Jack Hayward conscientiously. "Yes, sir. They lunched at one of my tables in the Chester dining room Saturday."

"At what time?"

The waiter shrugged slightly and smiled apologetically. "That I could not say, sir. After the 12:30 to 1:30 rush, sir, I should say."

"Did you notice them particularly, Phillips? Anything at all to fix this couple in your mind?" Mc Mann pursued.

"Well, sir, there were several things," the waiter began deprecatingly. "I thought it odd that the young lady wouldn't take her fur coat off, sir, as the dining room is quite warm."

"I didn't take my coat off because I was chilled—felt as if I were taking cold," Ruth explained, taking care to keep defiance out of her voice.

"You seem to have recovered from the cold," Mc Mann reminded her. "Perhaps there was something—heavy in the lining pocket which you didn't want the waiter to feel or see?"

Ruth knew that he was referring to her missing automatic. "There was nothing in the pocket, Mr. Mc Mann!"

Mc Mann smiled, shrugged, then turned to the waiter again. "You said there were several things that impressed this couple on your memory. What else, Phillips?"

"Well, sir, the young lady dropped her pocketbook, and while I was stooping to pick up the scattered contents of the bag, the little lady, excused herself, saying she had to telephone."

"To warn Borden not to let Jack Hayward into his office?" Mc Mann pounced, his glinting, narrowed grey eyes fixed upon Ruth.

The girl's face flamed. "No! I simply made the conventional excuse, and went to the ladies' rest room to powder my face. I telephoned no one."

"Hm!" Mc Mann obviously did not believe her. "What else, Phillips?"

"While I was picking up the scattered objects, the young gentleman was studying the menu card," the waiter went on, in his deprecating, hesitant manner. "He put the things back in the young lady's bag and gave me the order, without waiting for the young lady."

"What was the order?" Mc Mann demanded.

"I wouldn't like to swear to that, sir."

"I ordered broiled mushrooms on toast for Miss Lester, and sweetbread patiens for myself," Jack interrupted. "They were on the ready-to-serve list, and both of us are in the habit of eating light lunches."

"That's right, sir! I remember now!" the waiter corroborated eagerly. "I brought the orders right out, but first, before the young lady came back, I brought the rolls and butter and gave the young gentleman the key—"

"The key! What key?" Mc Mann demanded, his eyes taking quick note of Ruth's startled surprise.

"Why, sir, the key that had fell out of the young lady's handbag. I kicked against it when I was putting the rolls and butter on the table, or I would never have noticed it. I handed it to the young gentleman, sir."

"And what did he do with it?"

"I didn't notice, sir."

"Did you see him reach for Miss Lester's handbag to put it there?"

"No, sir. I'm quite sure he didn't, sir, at the time, at least. Probably he handed it to her when she returned to the table, sir."

"Do you think so?" Mc Mann grinned. "Just what kind of key was this, Phillips?"

"An ordinary modern lock key, sir."

"Miss Lester, show Phillips your key to this suite, please!" Mc Mann rapped out.

Ruth obeyed, going to the outer office to get her handbag out of the top drawer. When she returned she silently handed a key to the waiter, who fingered it briefly, then laid it upon the extended palm of the detective.

"Is that the key, Phillips?"

"It looks like it, sir, but of course I couldn't say—"

"Or is this the key you found on the floor?" Ruth asked, with quiet triumph, offering a second key, differing only slightly in size and shape from the first, which she took from a small coin purse.

The waiter shook his head helplessly. "It looks like it, miss, but since most of these keys look alike—"

"Exactly!" Ruth cried. "Mr. Mc Mann, this—"

He handed her the second key—"Is the key to the office. You can try it and see for yourself. These keys are so much alike that I was always mistaking my apartment key for my office key, and the other way round. So I solved the difficulty by keeping my office key in my coin purse, and the apartment key loose in my handbag. And the coin purse, which has a firm fastening, and fits snugly into its pocket in my handbag, did not fall out when I dropped the bag. That is correct, isn't it, Phillips?"

"Yes, miss. I didn't pick up a coin purse," the waiter agreed eagerly. "And it must not have come open, for there was only the one key and no small change on the floor."

"All right, Phillips. Anything else to impress this couple on your memory?"

"Well, sir, the gentleman excused himself to the young lady pretty soon after I'd served the entrées, and left the dining room," the waiter resumed his story.

"How soon after? And how long had they been there when the entrance was served?" Mc Mann prodded.

"As I said, sir, the entrées were ready in the kitchen and I brought them right out. I judge they hadn't been in the dining room more than five or six minutes when I served the food, since the gentleman ordered immediately, without waiting for the young lady. I couldn't say exactly how long it was before the gentleman left, but the food was scarcely touched, sir."

"Not hungry, eh?" Mc Mann commented, sweeping Ruth and Jack with his narrowed eyes. "Well, Phillips, how long was the young man gone?"

"I couldn't say that, sir, to the minute, but it was quite a while—15 to 25 minutes, I should think, for the young lady was becoming very restless."

"Very restless!" Mc Mann repeated slowly, as he wrote the words down. "Then when the young man returned, how did he behave, Phillips? How did he look?"

"Flustered, sir, and worried, sort of. Wouldn't have any dessert, sir, and seemed to be in a hurry to get away," the waiter answered.

"Remember what they talked about when you came for the dessert order?" Mc Mann demanded sharply.

"I didn't listen, sir, of course," the waiter deprecatingly. "But I heard the gentleman answer some question the young lady had asked—something about Mr. Borden, sir."

"About Borden!" Mc Mann triumphed. "You're sure of that, Phillips? Just what was said, and how did you happen to remember the name?"

"Why, sir, Mr. Borden is—or rather, was, sir—a frequent guest for luncheon in our dining room, so naturally when his name was mentioned I noticed it."

"Yes?" Mc Mann smiled at the pale girl with the blazing eyes and at the pale young man whose hands were clenched.

"Yes, sir. He was saying something like, 'What makes you think I saw Borden?' and the young lady answered, or in words to this effect, sir: 'You were gone so long and look so awful I thought you were having a quarrel with Borden.' That's all I heard, sir, for I left the table then to get the check from the cashier, with the amount stamped on it."

"I'm afraid, Miss Lester," Mc Mann turned to Ruth, "that, like most people, you're inclined to forget what waiters have eyes and ears, as well as hands."

Before the flushed, indignant girl could answer, the detective turned to the waiter again. "When did the couple leave, Phillips? Give me the time, as nearly as you can place it."

The waiter shook his head. "I really couldn't say, sir. I go off duty at three, and all I can say is that I worked for some time after the young couple had gone."

"In quite a hurry to get away, weren't they, Phillips?" Mc Mann suggested.

"I couldn't say as to that, sir, except that the young gentleman left his briefcase, and I hurried after him with it."

"His briefcase, eh? Pretty heavy, was it, Phillips? Sides stuffed out?"

"It was a large bag and quite heavy, but I don't remember

JAPAN EMPEROR'S BIRTHDAY.

HOW IT WAS OBSERVED IN SHAMREEN.

Shamreen, Apr. 29.

The Japanese, British, French and American gunboats in port dressed ship to-day in honour of the 28th anniversary of H.I.M. the Emperor of Japan.

Mr. Yano, the Japanese Consul-General, held a reception at his residence this morning, and in the afternoon there were sports for the Japanese children and sailors at the Japanese school.

Amongst those present at the reception besides the staff of the Japanese Consulate-General, the commanders and officers of the two Japanese destroyers in port and the leading members of the Japanese community, were Mr. A. L. Tison, H.B.M. Acting Consul-General; Mr. Douglas Jenkins, Consul-General for the United States; Monsieur Eynard, Consul for France; Mr. Sokowsky, acting Consul-General for Germany; Mr. A. S. Basto, Vice-Consul for Portugal; Mr. U. Spallinger, Consul for Switzerland; Mr. J. J. Wierink, Consul for Holland; Mr. R. K. Batchelor, Consul for Norway and Chairman of the Shamreen Municipal Council; Mr. James E. McKenna, Consul for the United States; Mr. G. E. Stockley, H.B.M. Vice-Consul; Monsieur P. de Franqueville, Vice-Consul for France; Mr. J. C. H. Bonbright, Vice-Consul for the United States; Monsieur A. C. E. Braud, Commissioner of Posts; Mr. R. D. Walcott, Commissioner of Salt Gabelle; Major Olivecrona, Engineer-in-Chief to the Board of Conservancy of Kwangtung; Captain R. N. Bjuke; Mr. C. Y. Leung, acting Commissioner of Foreign Affairs; the co-director of Posts and representatives of the Civil Government and military, naval, Air and Police Bureaux.

Mr. Yano made a short speech in which he stated that this was the greatest holiday of the year for the Japanese; it was the 28th anniversary of their Emperor and the first anniversary to be celebrated since his enthronement in November last. Proposing the toast of H.I.M. the Emperor of Japan, Mr. Yano ended for three hearty "Banzais" from all present. These were cordially given.—Our Own Correspondent.

whether it was bulging or not," the waiter answered conscientiously. "Did the gentleman leave you a big tip, Phillips?" Mc Mann asked, grinning.

Mc Mann roared with sudden laughter. "A nickel tip! No wonder you've got such a good memory where this gentleman is concerned, Phillips!"

Jack Hayward's face flamed with humiliation. With furious haste he thrust his hand into his pocket and drew out a dollar bill. "Here waiter! I apologize. I don't think I even looked at the amount of the bill. God knows no one has ever before been able to accuse me of being a niggardly tipper. Here!"

But Mc Mann halted the advance of the waiter's eager hand. "Put up your money, Hayward! What would have been a big tip on Saturday night look to the jury like a small bribe to make this man forget some of the things he has—unfortunately for you—so well remembered!"

Birdwell opened the communicating door. "A report on Benny Smith, the office boy, sir."

SOME SUGGESTIONS.

[To The Editor of Hongkong

Telegraph.]

Sir,—Will you be kind enough to allow me space for the following few observations.

The state of the main street

leading from the Yaumati Ferry

to Nathan Road and around the Market, is little short of a scandal.

For many months now this main street with its side arms as above,

is left in an unfinished state showing several long patches of asphalted surface, whilst the whole reminder is left covered with innumerable sharp-edged stones which make the walking on it even in leather shoes painful and uncomfortable. But what about the many thousands of Chinese who have to use this main street daily on their way to and from the Ferry and the Market, many of whom are cargo coolies, carrying heavy loads on bamboo poles on their bare feet.

The state of this main road is a veritable daily torture to them and to all who have to use it.

May this letter serve to remedy

this long-standing neglect and bring about the covering of the road for its entire length and breath with a smooth asphalt surface without delay.

I feel it my duty to herewith voice the opinion of a good number of citizens that the "Blinking

Light" Signal Post near the Post Office had better not be re-erected.

There can be little doubt that it does irritate and distract pedestrians and drivers with its blinks at such long intervals. If a red light on a post is necessary

at this spot, which many doubt, as a traffic signal visible from all sides and of a shape intelligible

to all, would be of far greater effect—let us at least have a permanent red light non-blinking,

and non-irritating which does not produce that distracting effect,

which has caused a driver to steer right into it and to knock it down.

—Yours, etc.,

HERBERT E. LANEPARY.

HUSBAND ATTACKS WIFE.

BOTH IN SERIOUS CONDITION
IN HOSPITAL.

A police report received this morning briefly refers to the admission into hospital of a Chinese married couple in circumstances which amount to a tragedy.

Early this morning, the police were called to the first floor of No. 15, Pokfulam Road, where they found Tang Chee, a married woman, 31 years of age, lying unconscious from a number of wounds in her head and knees, and her husband, Lau Mat, 50 years, suffering from a gash in his throat. A blood-stained chopper was lying near-by.

From accounts given by the neighbours, it would appear that, after attacking his wife with a chopper, the man turned the weapon on himself, and inflicted a deep wound in his throat. Both are now lying in a critical condition at the Government Civil Hospital.

PARIS REPARATION FAILURE.

LEADING GERMAN DELEGATE
QUITE RESIGNED.

A GLOOMY OUTLOOK.

Berlin, Apr. 29.
German anxiety regarding the reparations deadlock was reflected to-day by a special conference of leading members of the Government, and Dr. Schacht, the President of the Reichsbank and the principal German delegate to the Committee of Experts on Reparations.

Herr Mueller, the Chancellor, Dr. Stresemann, the Foreign Secretary, the Minister of Finance and the Minister of Economics were representative of the Government, and Dr. Schacht made it plain to them, after a discussion lasting approximately two hours, that in the present circumstances, a resumption of the Paris negotiations for the purpose of reaching a definite reparations agreement was somewhat improbable.

He also said it would be premature to speak of the opening of diplomatic negotiations with the interested Powers on the subject of reparations.

Meanwhile, it is understood, the closing report of the Paris Conference (which it is now admitted has practically failed) will contain unanimous German expert views of Germany's capacity to pay, and the reparations payments it will be possible for her to make. —Reuter.

SEAMAN'S TRAGIC DEATH.

"MARAZION" MAN FALLS
FROM VERANDAH.

A sad occurrence, involving the death of a British seaman, has been reported by the police, following the removal to the Naval Mortuary, at an early hour this morning, of the remains of A. B. Millard, of H.M.S. Marazion.

A. B. Millard was found dead outside the Naval Canteen at Wanchai shortly after four o'clock this morning, having apparently fallen from the verandah of the upper storey. The injuries were such as to have caused instant death.

The unfortunate seaman was dressed in shorts and a singlet, and wore only one boot, although both socks were on.

BRITISH VIEWS ON DISARMAMENT.

POSITION STATED BY LORD CUSHENDUN.

REDUCTION IN BRITISH ARMY
OUTLINED.

ALREADY COMPLIED?

The British attitude towards land armaments was clearly defined at the Preparatory Commission on Disarmament at Geneva to-day, in reply to a proposal by M. Litvinoff, that "reduction" should be substituted for "limitation" in the proposed Convention Article dealing with effectives.

The French delegate keenly opposed the change, and the proposal was dropped after a further statement by the British representatives.

Important Distinction.

Lord Cushendun, the British delegate, said it was quite true as the French delegate had said that the question of the distinction between limitation and reduction had already been discussed and settled.

Nevertheless, it was very important to bear in mind the distinction between the two, because if reduction were to be substituted for limitation in the Convention, they might very well be going beyond the obligations of Article Eight of the Covenant.

Article Eight of the Covenant laid down that there should be reduction down to a level consistent with national safety.

One could not tell at present what nations if any, had already reduced to that level.

Beyond Obligations.

Consequently, if they were to insist upon reduction as well as limitation in the present Convention, they might very well be going beyond the obligations of Article Eight.

In this connexion he mentioned that Great Britain had carried out consistently for many years, a continuous reduction of land armaments. At the end of the war Britain had a very large military force, produced by compulsory service, which was an exceptional system for her. Britain immediately returned to voluntary service, but even on that small level, which, compared with the conscriptionist nations, was of course very small, Britain had been continually reducing her army.

British Action.

In proof of that proposition, he said that compared with August 1914, namely with the pre-war, army, Britain had reduced nine cavalry regiments, twenty-one infantry battalions and sixty-one artillery batteries. In the last five years she had progressively reduced her military budget.

In 1925, irrespective of pensions, the British military budget was £36,500,000. In 1926, it was £34,500,000; in 1927, it was £33,330,000; in 1928, it was £32,750,000; and in the present year, £32,333,000, so that during the last five years, Britain had been continually and progressively reducing her military budget at the same time that she had carried out a progressive diminution of land forces.

Therefore, it was quite possible, though he did not assert it was so, that when the matter came to be decided by the Disarmament Conference, it might happen that Britain had already reduced to the level required by Article Eight of the Covenant. —British Wireless.

Mr. Britten Talks Again.

Washington, Apr. 29.
For the second time within ten days, Mr. Hugh Gibson has played into the hands of Franco-British diplomacy, complains Mr. Britten, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee of the House of Representatives, in a statement attacking the American suggestion regarding trained reserves.

He expresses the opinion that neither of Mr. Gibson's proposals has the slightest chance of acceptance by the League Commission for many years, if ever. —Reuter's American Service.

SERIOUS TENSION IN GERMANY.

AUTHORITIES ANTICIPATE MAY DAY TROUBLE.

COMMUNIST ACTIVITY.

Berlin, Apr. 29.
The authorities are seriously concerned at the approach of May Day, owing to the activities of Communist agitators who are doing their utmost to incite the masses to demonstrate in the streets.

May Day is usually celebrated by the Labour Party holistically, but this year there is a new feeling. Posters exhibited banning all processions have been defaced, and the Communists are canvassing from house to house, urging the populace to defy the police.

Political passions have been running high for some time already and have been the cause of frequent clashes all over the country.

Communists attacked Republicans at Frankfurt-on-Main, one being killed and two seriously injured. Serious fighting has also taken place between Communists and the Fascists at Freiburg.

Trouble elsewhere is directed against the Poles. Nationalists repeatedly interrupted the Polish Opera Company playing at Oppeln, throwing stink-bombs, and howling down the actors, who were later molested in the streets. Similar anti-Polish demonstrations have taken place at Breslau. —Reuter.

THE DUKE'S TRIP TO JAPAN.

JAPANESE PRESSMAN ON H.M.S. SUFFOLK.

Tokyo, Apr. 30.

The vernacular newspapers are giving prominence to daily wireless messages from the Rengo Agency's correspondent aboard H.M.S. Suffolk, describing life on a British warship and the doings of the Duke of Gloucester.

Being the first time on which a Japanese journalist has been permitted to travel on a British warship, great interest is aroused and excellent impression has been made by the grant of this unusual privilege.

Special gratification is expressed at the correspondent's account of how the Japanese flag was hoisted and other ceremonies held aboard the Suffolk yesterday in celebration of the Emperor's birthday.

The opinion is expressed that these courtesies will do much to cement Anglo-Japanese relations. —Reuter.

Mr. R. J. Nuan, Boarding Officer, who prosecuted, informed his Worship that the Cheun Chow arrived from Macao at 11.30 a.m. on Saturday and later shifted to Shamshupo for repairs.

Defendant was fined $50, or three weeks.

For having no lifebuoys on board his craft, the master of a junk was charged by Mr. W. R. Hillyer, Junk Inspector, at the Marine Court this morning, before the Hon. Commr. G. F. Hole, R.N. Defendant pleaded guilty.

Questioned by his Worship, Mr. Hillyer said that at the time of the arrest, defendant had on board his craft 24 passengers, including the crew.

His Worship remarked that the offence was a very serious as well as a common one, and it had to be stopped.
